LAWS OF TWO STATES UPHELD

Prohibit Japanese From Owning or Leasing Lands.

SUPREME COURT'S DECISION

Each State, in the Absence of Any Treaty Provision Conferring the Right, It Is Held, May Enact Laws Prohibiting Aliens From Owning Land Within Its Borders—Cases From California and Washington.

Washington, Nov. 13.—The United States supreme court upheld the state laws of California and Washington prohibiting Japanese from owning or leasing lands in those states.

In the Washington case, which was used as a precedent for the California decision, the court declared: "Each state, in the absence of any treaty provision conferring the right, may enact laws prohibiting aliens from owning land within its borders. Unless the right to own or lease land is given by the treaty, no question of conflict can arise."

The Washington case brought into question the commerce and navigation treaty between the United States and Japan, it being contended in the test suit that the state act was in conflict with this treaty. The court held:

"The state act, in our opinion, is not in conflict with the treaty between the United States and Japan. The preamble declares it to be a 'treaty of commerce and navigation,' and indicates that it was entered into for the purpose of establishing the rules to govern the commercial intercourse between the two countries. The only provision that relates to owning or leasing land is the first paragraph of Article I, which is as follows: 'The citizens or subjects of each of the high contracting parties shall have liberty to enter, travel and reside in the territories of the other, to carry on trade, wholesale or retail, to own or lease and occupy houses, manufacturers, factories, warehouses, and to employ agents, etc.'"

"If the language left the treaty provisions obscure, the court finds the letter of Secretary of State Bryan to Viscount Uchida, July 16, 1916, shows that it was in accordance with the wish of Japan that the right to own land was not conferred by the treaty."

In the California decision the court declared: "The treaty between the United States and Japan does not confer upon Japanese subjects the privilege of acquiring or leasing land for agricultural purposes. In the case before us the prohibited class includes ineligible aliens only. In the matter of classification the states have wide discretion. Each has its own problems, depending on circumstances existing there. It is not always practical or desirable that legislation shall be the same in different states. We can not say that the failure of the California legislature to extend the prohibited class so as to include eligible aliens who have failed to declare their intentions to become citizens of the United States was arbitrary or unreasonable."

SOLONS FAVOR MELLON PLAN

Tax Reductions Would Lower Cost of Living, It Is Claimed.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's plan for sweeping tax reductions has the approval of leaders in congress, he revealed. The moment the reductions become effective, Mellon said, the country will witness an immediate decline in the cost of living. As an instance, he pointed out, the railroads, now hard pressed to pay dividends and taxes, would be enabled to borrow money at a lower rate of interest. As a result, he believes, there will be a reduction in the high freight rates on all commodities, now a big factor in the maintenance of high prices. The big attraction for the proposal, he feels, is that which would reduce the highest brackets, or surtaxes, to twenty-five per cent. He said the present system has proved a failure because where the government expected to collect a vast sum, the real wealth is escaping taxation altogether.

To Die in Chair.

Cleveland, Nov. 13.—Death in the electric chair was the sentence determined for Cosmo Ferranto, 44, by Common Pleas Judge McMahon when Ferranto pleaded guilty to a blanket charge of homicide, putting himself at the mercy of the court as his trial approached its end.

MOVES AGAINST REDS

Mexican Government Sends Ultimatum to Their Headquarters.

Mexico City, Nov. 13.—In an attempt to put an end to the destructive activities of organized "red" labor, which is strongly entrenched throughout the federal district, an ultimatum has been delivered to the headquarters of the "reds" in this city by federal authorities. The action of the authorities followed close on the heels of the discovery of a quantity of dynamite in the gigantic electric power cable at Nacaza, which supplies this city with light and power. This is the second attempt to destroy the cable within a week, both attempts being frustrated by the vigilance of the federal troops stationed nearby. During the past week the "reds" have been circulating printed propaganda among the working classes in an attempt to inflame the minds of the masses against the army and police.

FORMER KAISER MAY RE-ENTER GERMANY

Wilhelm Reported to Have Received His Passports.

Paris, Nov. 13.—Dispatches reaching here from The Hague insist that former Kaiser Wilhelm has received his passports and is ready to re-enter Germany.

It was stated that the former emperor has been maintaining close relations with the leaders of the German monarchist movement and was said to be hopeful that the events in Germany would turn in his favor.

Germany's refusal to permit the allies to reinstitute military control or to deliver the former crown prince was read to the council of ambassadors, and was referred to the various governments for action.

Even on this matter there is a wide divergence of opinion between the French and English. The former hold that the crown prince should be tried by the Leipzig court for war crimes, while the British insist that Wilhelm be delivered by Germany to the allies, who could thereupon exile him to some island, preferably St. Helena.

The majority of the press emphasizes the helplessness of the allies before Germany's defiance, and expresses the view that "sending an army corps to capture him seems the only way to compel the former crown prince's surrender."

Youth Restorer Fatal.

Cincinnati, Nov. 13.—Stephen Flack, 85, Norwood, met death in his search for renewed youth, it is believed. He was found seemingly unconscious on the street. Coroner Handley said that an empty bottle found in his pockets had contained a proprietary medicine which the government barred from the mails because of its disastrous effect upon the human system. It was advertised to restore youth to the aged.

Mrs. Caruso to Wed.

London, Nov. 13.—Mrs. Enrico Caruso will marry Captain G. A. Ingram, wealthy Scotchman, in London this week. Within a few days the ceremony will take place either at the famous Brompton Oratory or at the Church of the Assumption.

VON KAHR DEFIES HITLER FORCES

HITLER NOW UNDER ARREST

Bavarian Fascist Leader Seized at Uffing and Placed in Prison—Ludendorff Issues Statements Charging Treachery on the Part of Von Kahr—Social Democrats Demand Convening of the Reichstag.

Berlin, Nov. 13.—The "private armies" in Bavaria made a demand on Dictator Von Kahr that he give a voice in the Bavarian dictatorship to the "Hitlerites."

The demand on behalf of the group of small military organizations was made by Captain Ehrhardt, commander of Ehrhardt's "vikings," who insisted that Von Kahr agree not to molest the Hitler forces. The demand was met with a curt refusal on the part of the Bavarian dictator, who immediately issued a proclamation asserting: "Full executive power in Bavaria rests in my hands, and I consider myself responsible, not only to Bavaria, but to the whole German people for every step. Bavaria shall be the nucleus of the new and honorable German state."

The Social Democratic party sent a demand to the central government that the reichstag be immediately called into session and that some definite program for maintaining the unity of the reich be promptly instituted. The Socialists also demanded further currency and exchange reforms.

Adolph Hitler, Bavaria's fascist leader, was arrested at Uffing, on Lake Staffelsee, near the Bavarian Alps.

After the chief of his press department had declared emphatically that there was "not a word of truth in the report," and that on the contrary Hitler was at Kuffstein, his arrest was confirmed at Dictator Von Kahr's headquarters, though it was said that his whereabouts was being kept from the public.

It was reported that after Hitler's arrest he had been concealed at a farm house and later transferred to a prison at Landsberg.

Ernst Hanfstaengel, New York art dealer, one of Hitler's chief aides, is said to be the leader at Kuffstein who is attempting to rally the Hitler followers.

There is less excitement in Munich and the "movement" is believed to be dying out.

TREACHERY CHARGED

General Ludendorff Assails Bavarian Dictator Von Kahr.

Munich, Nov. 13.—General Erich Ludendorff charged Dictator Von Kahr with double dealing and treachery when he turned against Adolph Hitler and Ludendorff in the 18-hour revolution of Thursday and Friday. The motive attributed to the Bavarian dictator for his sudden switch is that Von Kahr did not desire the success of the German national movement, but wanted to turn it in favor of a south German monarchy.

Ludendorff was not wounded, did not commit suicide and was not killed on orders from Von Kahr, though all of these rumors were circulated. He is very much alive, and not even broken down or "utterly crushed," as variously reported.

To Fly to North Pole.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Lieutenant Ralph E. Davison, Missouri boy chosen by the navy department to fly next summer from Spitzbergen to the north pole with Roald Amundsen, will soon be assigned to duty in cold regions to steel him for his task. Davison is now a valued member of the naval air force at the Pensacola station, and is feared that should he be allowed to continue on duty in Florida he might become physically unfitted to withstand the rigors of the far north.

DOINGS IN OHIO

Farm Hand Charged With Murder.

Ottawa, O., Nov. 13.—Charles Shank, 40, farm laborer, went on trial here charged with the first degree murder of Mrs. William Tenwalde, 39, mother of the girl he loved. His plea will be self-defense, according to statements of his attorneys. He will claim Mrs. Tenwalde so provoked him that he lost self-control. According to statements of eyewitnesses to the murder made at the coroner's investigation, Shank, before killing Mrs. Tenwalde, shot and killed Olivia Tenwalde, 18, unmarried, mother of his 16 months' old child, and the girl's cousin, Lawrence Tenwalde, 23. The shooting occurred on the Tenwalde farm, five miles west of here.

Bribery Charges to Be Probed.

New Lexington, O., Nov. 13.—Charges against Mayor G. A. Lidderdale of Junction City, J. E. Trout, state prohibition officer of Crooksville, and Attorney Paul Tague of New Lexington will be investigated by the Perry county grand jury. Mayor Lidderdale is charged with soliciting a bribe in the same case and Trout is charged with perjury in preparation of the affidavit against Tague.

Wheat Sprouts in Girl's Ear.

Hillsboro, O., Nov. 13.—Helen Jean Turner, 8, is recovering from an operation made necessary by the sprouting of a grain of wheat in her ear. The root of the wheat grain had penetrated along a bone in the inner ear. A segment of bone had to be removed. Helen was playing in a bin of wheat several weeks ago and it is supposed a grain of wheat lodged in her ear at that time.

ARMY AND NAVY ASK FOR FUNDS

Air Force Building Program Calls for $45,000,000.

JOINT BOARD CONSIDERS PLAN

Army Project Is For a Ten-Year Program Involving $25,000,000 Annually, While the Navy's Five-Year Project Calls For Annual Appropriation of $20,000,000—Weeks Turns Over Proposals to Denby.

Washington, Nov. 13.—The joint board of the army and navy has submitted to Secretary of War Weeks and Secretary of the Navy Denby a report covering proposed army-navy air force building programs totaling about $45,000,000.

The report is based upon a careful study of American air defense problems and upon recommendations submitted by army and navy officers.

The purpose is to co-ordinate the development of the air forces of the army and navy and to establish a logical building program to meet the needs of air defense against attack by foreign nations.

Both the army and the navy programs were submitted simultaneously to the joint board for consideration. The army project calls for a 10-year construction program involving an annual appropriation of $25,000,000. This recommendation, according to the board of officers appointed by the war department, covers the minimum force necessary if the army is to perform its mission in protecting the country from invasion. Naval officers ask the adoption of a five-year program involving a total expenditure of approximately $20,000,000, or an average of $20,000,000 annually. The navy program is guided in part by the fact that two airplane carriers will be completed in two years hence.

The recommendations of the navy are based upon the belief that the United States should maintain its "fleet" at the highest efficiency. The $100,000,000 total includes not only supplying airplanes, but also the building of air fleet bases at such points as Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and the Panama canal. After the completion of the five-year program, it is estimated, the navy will need about $20,000,000 annually to maintain its air force on an efficient basis.

Some differences have arisen within the war department because of the desire of Major General Patrick, chief of air service, for a Zeppelin. Secretary Weeks is not so enthusiastic as is General Patrick over the military possibilities of the Zeppelin. General Patrick would like to have an army Zeppelin built in Germany. If authority and funds can be obtained, it is possible that the war department will enter into negotiations with the American purchasers of the Zeppelin patents.

Without giving his approval, Mr. Weeks has transmitted the recommendations of the joint board to Secretary Denby for consideration. The secretary of war is particularly desirous of avoiding duplication of effort by the two services.

PROTECTION THE ISSUE

British Government Decides to Hold Immediate General Election.

London, Nov. 13.—The British government decided to hold an immediate general election on the protection issue. Premier Baldwin, after seeing King George, informed his friends that the plan is to announce the dissolution of parliament on Thursday and to hold the elections on Dec. 6. The decision was reached by the Conservatives so as not to give the Liberal, Labor or free trade parties time to organize in opposition to the proposed revolution in the country's fiscal policy. Nevertheless, the Liberals are speeding up the process of unity on behalf of Lloyd George. Sir Alfred Mond called on former Premier Herbert Asquith with a view of healing the war-time feud which has existed between the two ex-premiers.

Police Chief Quits.

Newark, O., Nov. 13.—James Sheridan, chief of police here for the last 20 years, has resigned, effective Jan. 1. Sheridan stated he resigned because the Klan, victorious in the recent election here, made his removal a feature of its campaign.

Was Despondent.

URGES APPROPRIATION

Funk Would Extend Relief to Starving Children of Germany.

Washington, Nov. 13.—President Coolidge was urged to ask congress to extend relief to the starving and under-nourished children of Germany.

Representative Frank R. Funk of Illinois made the recommendation after a careful study of the situation on a recent visit to Germany. He would make $25,000,000 available for the purchase of food and ask Germany to arrange to finance an additional purchase of $24,000,000. The first sum would be put at the disposal of a committee headed by Major General Henry T. Allen, former commander of the American forces of occupation. With the co-operation of Charles G. Dawes, former director of the budget, this committee is now engaged in raising relief funds from private contributions.

Because the reparations commission would prevent the issuance of any government bonds to pay for food, Representative Funk asks that that congress authorize the war finance corporation to enter into negotiations with German municipalities. These municipalities could issue bonds, he said, which could be underwritten by the war finance corporation and used as collateral for the purchase of foods.

Forbes to Be Quizzed.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Colonel Charles R. Forbes, former director of the veterans' bureau, will take the stand today in defense of his administration before the senate investigating committee, it was announced by James S. Eassey-Smith, Forbes' counsel. Forbes is expected to enter a sweeping denial of charges made against him and his administration by Elias H. Mortimer and other witnesses who have appeared before the committee since hearings opened Oct. 22. Forbes has not appeared at the hearings for more than a week. It was announced a week ago that he was too ill to leave his room.

BASEBALL DEAL

New York Giants and Boston Braves Swap Players.

New York, Nov. 13.—Dave Bancroft, captain and shortstop of the Giants, was traded to the Boston Braves to become their manager, replacing Fred Mitchell, who has resigned. "Casey" Stengel, a hero in the last world's series, and Bill Cunningham, outfielder, go with Bancroft to Boston, and in exchange the Giants will get Billy Southworth, hard hitting Brave outfielder, and Joe Oeschger, a pitcher. The deal was completed at a meeting at the headquarters of the New York club. At Boston Bancroft will play shortstop and will also be captain of the team. Stengel and Cunningham may land regular outfield berths in view of the mediocre talent of the Boston outfit.

Boy Run Down.

Dover, O., Nov. 13.—Andrew Chordash, 4, was hit by an automobile and fatally injured while watching a football game. The boy's neck was broken and he died on the way to a hospital.

BY THE SLEEPING SEINE

So Still It Lies Before Dawn That Its Course to the Sea Seems to Have Stopped.

You will have to stay out late or get up very early to catch the silver Seine asleep. And even then you might find it waking, wind-ruffled and restless, for the Seine seldom goes to sleep. But when, by some good fortune, you surprise it slumbering then you truly find a sleeping beauty. So still it lies sometimes in the hour before the dawn that it would seem for once to have stayed its course to join the sea. Not the tiniest ripple disturbs its polished surface.

And sleeping, it would seem to be dream-haunted. It dreams of the city through which it flows. Above it hangs the starlit sky; tall buildings seem to peep into its depths, and the bridges stretch across it almost caressingly as though protecting a child that had gone to sleep.

And the dream of the river is of these same stars that shine above, of the tall buildings that are peeping down, of the bridges that stretch their arms above its bosom. For in the mirror of its shining surface you will see all these things more beautiful perhaps than their reality, and, looking down into this dream city, you will speak quite softly lest haply you might wake the sleeping Seine.—London Mall.

MARIE GREAT HELP TO HER

Mother Could Do Washing for Eleven So Easy When Girl Played a Ukulele.

Unselfish mothers too often make or permit their daughters to be selfish, more's the pity. One such mother, according to a story that Booth Tarkington likes to tell, was bending industriously over the washtub when a neighbor said to her, "Hard at it as usual, ain't ye?"

"Yes," replied the mother cheerfully. "Yes, this is wash day, Mrs. O'Hoolahan, and washin' for eleven don't leave you much spare time on your hands."

"Is that Marie I hear singin' to the ukulele in the parlor?"

Marie, by the way, was in infancy christened Mary and in early youth was always known as Mollie.

"Yes, Mrs. O'Hoolahan, that's her. The help she is to me! Oh, dear! Oh, dear! I don't know how I'd get along without that girl! Every Monday morning she gets out the ukulele or opens up the piano, and while I'm scrubbin' the clothes she sings the nicest, cheerin'est pieces, like 'Mother's Day,' or 'Dear Mother, in Dreams I See You,' or 'Lighten Mother's Tasks With Love,' and the work just rolls off like play. I tell you, Mrs. O'Hoolahan, there ain't many girls like our Marie."—Youth's Companion.

CITY MANAGER

CUTS TAX RATE

Clarinda (Ia.) Treasury Balance Increases From $6,000 to $44,700 in Four Years.

Clarinda, Ia.—Clarinda has just completed a four-year experiment in city government. Four years ago Clarinda engaged a manager to run the town. That manager has just resigned to go to Janesville, Wis. But Clarinda is so proud of its one-man government that it wants to tell the world all about it.

When Clarinda began talking "city management" five or six years ago there was very little information to be had on the subject. The system was new. People "thought" it should work out all right, but didn't "know" what to expect from the plan. But Clarinda now knows.

Paid Cash for Everything.

The city manager, Henry Traxler, took office on April 1, 1919. On that day there was a balance in the city treasury of $6,000. After four years of one-man management, the city's balance is $44,700.

The tax rate has not been raised. It actually has been lowered. Many thousands of dollars' worth of improvements have been made, and Clarinda has paid cash for everything.

Clarinda got in those four years 100 cents' worth for every dollar it spent for material and labor. It did not bother itself to find out if a Republican could clean more square yards of pavement than a Democrat, or whether a Socialist was a better worker than a Prohibitionist. An employee's politics was lost sight of completely. All he had to do was to work, no matter how he voted.

Some of the Results.

Here are some of the improvements Clarinda has made in the last four years:

Installed a new water purification system; bought an armory and made it serve also for a city business building; purchased a municipal cemetery; laid many miles of new paving (costing $165,000 in 1921 alone); rebuilt the fire station and added new apparatus; kept up the ordinary repairs to all city property.

While other towns and cities were voting and issuing bonds right and left and fastening a heavy debt on coming generations, Clarinda paid its way as it went and did not issue a single bond.

Furthermore, while taxes were mounting skywards in other cities and towns, Clarinda actually cut its tax rate. In 1916 the tax levy was 42½ mills. This year it was 42 mills, including a 2-mill levy for the municipal band.

Saved $6,000 in Fees.

Among the "jobs" of the city manager was that of handling the municipal waterworks. Clarinda is proud of its water system. It is called the best in southwestern Iowa, and its rates are quite a bit lower than in other cities of the same class. On April 1, 1919, the water work's balance was $27. Now it is more than $10,000. In the meantime, the plant has been built up to the minute and pays all overhead, costs of operation and replacements.

The armory cost the city $15,000 and $9,000 additional was spent to modernize the building so that it could be used for offices as well. Part of the building not used by the city is rented for $4,000 a year, which more than pays all expenses. The building also is used by the band, and the auditorium is reserved for public affairs without expense.

The cemetery, bought by the city manager for $10,000, now has $9,200 in its maintenance fund.

While the city was spending $165,000 for paving, the city manager, who also is an engineer, took charge of the paving program and in one year saved the town $6,000 in engineering fees.

Porto Rican Kills Man Who Refused Him Shave

New York.—Refusal to shave an impatient customer cost James Fornita, an uptown barber, his life, and resulted in the arrest of Julius Rodriguez, who said he was a Porto Rican cowboy, on a charge of homicide.

Rodriguez entered Fornita's shop and put himself in a chair. When recommended to a neighboring shop, he commenced to shoot up the place, the police said. One bullet killed Fornita, another grazed the cheek of an assistant. Then Rodriguez fled. When the police seized him after an exciting chase, he still had the pistol in his hand.

Decorate U. S. Gunner for Vera Cruz Feat

Washington.—President Coolidge, in the presence of Secretary Denby, Assistant Secretary Roosevelt and ranking officers of the navy, presented a Congressional Medal of Honor recently to George Bradley, chief gunner, United States navy, for meritorious service under fire on the landing of American naval forces at Vera Cruz in 1914.

Bradley, attached to the battleship Utah as chief gunner's mate, was in charge of the ammunition and special details at Vera Cruz.

The American Outclassed.
The American truth teller was in form. "Talking of ants," he said, "we've got 'em as big as crabs out West. I've seen 'em fight with long horns, which they use as lances, charging each other like savages."
"They don't compare with the ants I saw in the Far East," said an inoffensive individual nearby. "The natives have trained them as beasts of burden. One of 'em could trail a ton load for miles with ease. They worked willingly, but occasionally they turned on their attendants and killed them."
But this was drawing the long bow a little too far.
"I say, old chap," said a shocked voice from the corner, "what sort of ants were they?"
"Elephant-ants," replied the inoffensive individual.—London Tit-Bits.

Boy Wins First Prize at Indiana State Fair

Muncie Youth Takes Baby Beef Championship.

When the leaders of the live stock industry promoted the baby beef club work among boys and girls, they did not expect that within only a few years these juniors would be able to surpass the experienced veterans in the show arena. But this, however, happened at the recent Indiana state fair when the winner in the baby beef contest showed in the open classes and defeated the breeders themselves for the grand championship of the show.

The boy who had this proud distinction was William Robert Wilson, the son of the well-known Aberdeen-Angus breeder, W. W. Wilson of Muncie, Indiana. After winning at his county fair, the young man took his baby beef, Baron W. to Indianapolis to compete for the state championship. There he met stiff competition in the show of 62 calves, 24 of which were Short-horns, 22 Aberdeen-Angus and 16 Herefords.

This promising stockman was asked to tell the story of his success for the benefit of the thousands of farmer boys and girls who are enrolled in club work all over the country. The following account is given in his own words:

"The calf that I showed in Indianapolis is a pure bred Angus. His sire is Belmont E. Baron and his dam is

William Wilson and His Champion Steer, Baron W.

Leona Dean. I named him Baron W. I bought him of my father in March. He weighed on March 1, 920 pounds.

"When I bought him he was running in the lot with other cattle, feeding on ensilage, clover hay and straw. I tied him up for a week and began to feed him some ground oats and corn and oil meal with his ensilage and carried him water.

"I won grand champion on him at our county fair and then I took him to our state fair, where I won first in the calf club and grand champion of the club. Then he won first in the open Angus class and was made champion Angus steer and later grand champion over all breeds. I am going to show him at the International Live Stock Exposition in the Calf club contest."

Professor W. J. Kennedy, Sioux City, Iowa, who judged the steers at Indianapolis, is reported to have stated that the animals shown there were among the best he had seen this year.

Ordinary Grain Binder Will Handle Soy Beans

The essential thing when harvesting soy beans for grain is to do the work just when the pods are nearly ripe, for even a few days' delay will cause many of the dead-ripe pods to shatter. The Iowa experiment station says that small acreages of soy beans may be economically handled with an ordinary grain binder, for then the sheaves can be shocked like other grain and left until they are fit to hull. The beans may be colored up some from the rains, but they will be kept sound and sweet and will be fit for feed or for seed.

Energetic Fowls Found to Be Best Egg Layers

"The fowl that lays during the winter is the one that lays best during the summer months," says Annabelle Campbell, poultry specialist in the office of extension work with women, Minnesota university. "The fowl that lays best under adverse conditions is the one that also, after a short rest, produces during the winter, rests for a short time and then comes into laying in the spring and continues laying during the summer months until fall. The best fowls in the flock are those that require the least amount of rest."

Production of Turkeys Decreasing Every Year

The production of turkeys seems to decrease yearly. Perhaps this is due to the increase in the production of capons. Certain it is that capons are much easier to raise, and there are many people who will tell you that they like capon meat better than that of the turkey. Little has ever been done in the way of raising turkeys in confinement. When it has been tried the results have been discouraging. Capons, on the other hand, can be raised successfully in this manner.

Not Entirely Alone.
"Yes, your honor," said the aggrieved woman, as she dabbed her eyes, "he neglected me shamefully. Why, he never was at home."
"And I suppose you had to spend your evenings all by yourself, with no companionship whatever?"
"W-w-well," she sobbed, "I had two goldfish."

BUSINESS WOMEN

Club to be Organized Here—Initial Meeting Monday Evening.
 A representative number of the business and professional women of Circleville met in the chamber of commerce Monday evening to consider the possibility of organizing a Business and Professional Women's club. A banquet was served at 6 o'clock and following came an intellectual feast with Dr. Eliza Edwards, of Cincinnati, and Miss Helen Myers, of Columbus, as speakers.
 The object of the club is the co-operation of women in an organized club, making better business women, development and confidence, gives broader outlook thru contact with others, furnishes opportunity for physical and mental growth, makes the business women part and parcel of her community.

Dr. Edwards spoke of the great possibilities of Circleville and the advantages to be gained by systematic leadership and classified information. No organization should live for itself alone. Valuable contacts with other business women are made thru clubs, bringing pleasant social relations and new business opportunities. Team work, club loyalty, cooperation are strong factors in development.
 Miss Myers, one of the state organizers, told of the activities of the Columbus club and how it has promoted the interests and encouraged business and professional women.

The chairman appointed the following committees:
 On Constitution:—Margaret Clark, Helen Rowe, Esther Davidson.
 Nomination Committee:—Mary Foresman, Charlotte Phelps, Mary Howard, Mrs. Ida M. Graham, Charlotte M. Ewing.
 Publicity Chairman:—Miss Agnes R. Butch.
 Chairman on Arrangements:—Mrs. Harry G. Stevenson.
 Membership Committee:—Mrs. Louise Crawford.
 Mrs. Stevenson and Mrs. Crawford will appoint their own assistants.
 Enthusiasm bubbled over when the thermometer indicated that fifty had signed for a permanent organization.
 The next meeting will be held Monday evening, November 26. The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the speakers and the chamber of commerce.

Chic Japanese Kimono; Red as Ground Color

This very beautiful Japanese kimono is shown in a soft silk with a drop-stitched line running through. The ground color is red, with a Nipponese pattern in blue and white.

Fashion Notes That Will Appeal to Women

Many of the strictly tailored models are characterized by fine tucking. The termination of tucks at a point several inches below the waist gives a long line effect to the frock. Most of the frocks of this style are made on perfectly straight lines, with the beltless mode predominating. One especially successful dress of this type has a high collar, long, tight sleeves and no trimming except a narrow band of silk embroidery around the hem of the skirt, which dips slightly upward toward the side fastening.
 Wide sleeves of black silk lace enhance a draped black satin velvet gown, caught at the side with a rhinestone buckle. Plaited panels and the square neck are features of other models in Parisian exhibits. One is cut velvet in cafe au lait color, another of chenille velours with panels of crepe du jour.
 For motor, steamer or travel wear, sports attire, developed in the popular tweeds, is very much in the foreground of fashion. Mixtures of gray, tan and brown colorings are especially effective. A great many of these are fashioned in the cape coat mode, either with the sleeves banded in circular folds simulating the cape effect, or the coat itself flaunting a detachable cape.
 Among the types of sleeve most prominent is one tight to a little below the elbow, and there slashed, piped and puffed, ending in a tight wristband.
 Green, in various soft shades, almond and bottle green, is favored, and remains a favorite for semi-formal and street frocks.
 The newest formal gowns introduce the train at the side, rather than the back. The trains drape forward as gracefully as backward with each step the wearer takes.

Three-Quarter Length Mandarin Style Coats

Generally speaking there is no more becoming fashion to the average woman than that of a coat of three-quarter length worn with a frock to match. Slender in line, a costume of this type is not only graceful and dignified, but extremely smart as well. For the woman of rather moderate dress allowance it is probably the most satisfactory choice she could make. It serves so many purposes and may be worn on both formal and informal occasions.
 It is in a costume of this type that the Chinese influence is so pronounced. The lines of the coat, the cut of the sleeves and the details of trimming have been copied from a mandarin coat.
 A new fashion that has appeared shows a suit which has a skirt of striped wool with a fur trimmed coat of plain color, or the order is reversed. These are what might be called semi-sports suits and are just the thing for early autumn days in the country or for a suit to wear in the morning when shopping.
 The question of waistline still remains a matter of individual choice, since many of the best designs show a rather long waist while others place it a bit nearer the natural line. It is claimed, however, that the long line gives an appearance of youth and therefore is perhaps the more popular choice.

New and Unusual.
 A coat which is a striking exponent of the new mode is in color a marvelous tone called Egyptian granite, somewhat like rosewood. It is trimmed with bands of beaver slightly separated so that one glimpses the color of the fabric. These bands are arranged to extend only across one side, leaving the other plain. The effect is new and unusual.

Leather Directory Case.

WORKER FOR LEGION BUDDIES

Robert G. Simmons, Nebraska Congressman, Has Done Much for Ex-Service Men.

Robert G. Simmons, congressman from Nebraska, is a democratic sort of a chap, and doesn't hesitate to tell about it. He keeps a Holstein cow, drives a popular touring car, and hobnobs with his neighbors, particularly those who are members of the American Legion in his home town of Scotsbluff, Neb., where he has made his way up to the position he now holds.

Simmons was born in a sod house on a western Nebraska homestead, sixty miles from a railroad. His early life was like that of any youngster of the western country. He had to help earn his way by farm labor, janitor work, messenger duty and odd jobs. When he attended college at Hastings he mowed lawns, washed dishes and tended furnaces to pay his expenses.

He entered the military service in 1917 at Fort Omaha, Neb., as a private first class, but when discharged in 1919, had been elevated to the rank of second lieutenant, air service. Mr. Simmons is a lawyer, and was county attorney at the time of his enlistment.

He served one term as commander of the Nebraska department of the American Legion, during which time certain legislation favored by the Legion was successfully enacted. He was active in securing the passage of a law, establishing a $2,000,000 endowment fund, income from which is expended by the American Legion in the state for the benefit of needy ex-service men. Interest in the affairs of the ex-service men of the nation is a deep concern of the Nebraska congressman and he expects to devote a great deal of time to the Legion's program for relief of disabled.

PLAN TO TEACH AMERICANISM

Illinois Legion Commander Arranges for Broad Campaign During School Vacation.

Every school child in Illinois will hear a weekly message of Americanism during the school year, according to announced plans of the Illinois department of the American Legion, in accepting an outline of work from Commander Charles W. Schick of that state.
 Commander Schick plans that every Legion post in the state's 102 counties will assign certain members of the organization to speak in each school-room in the cities and each school in country districts every week during the school year, carrying a message of better citizenship to the youth of America.

In this manner the Illinois Legion man believes that such careful training aiming toward a better understanding of rights and privileges of citizenship will result in rapid assimilation of aliens in the state as well as assisting in raising the standard of citizenship of those already in possession of these rights.

Co-operation by members of the Legion with churches and other agencies in preparing citizens for naturalization is included in Commander Schick's plans. Prospective citizens will receive thorough training in the requirements for naturalization, so that the applicant will be familiar with American history and institutions before the final papers are awarded. Because church life is closer to the home it is hoped that the Legion, working through the various denominations, may realize on this plan for citizenship.

El Paso to Welcome Veterans.

Legionnaires who travel to San Francisco for the annual convention of the American Legion, may pass through El Paso, Tex., where a reception awaits them. The local Legion post started the idea, which was joined in by the El Paso Chamber of Commerce, army officials and railroads entering the city. A feature of the visit of each delegation will be a short trip into old Mexico, across the international bridge into Juarez. Automobiles will be furnished for this trip. The invitation holds good for either the coming or going trips of the Legion travelers, or both, according to the El Paso committee.

Only Auxiliary Baseball Team.
 Members of the American Legion auxiliary in Stanton, La., are believed to have formed the only baseball team composed of woman relatives of former service men. A challenge to the team of any other unit has been made by the Stanton nine.

FEDERAL PRISONER.

Harry Carwell, of Columbus, a one legged beggar, plead guilty last Saturday in federal court to transporting a young girl from West Virginia to Columbus. He was sentenced by Judge Sater under the Mann act to eight months in the Pickaway county jail.

JOHN PETTY DEAD.

John Petty died suddenly Sunday morning at the home of his son, Arthur Petty, in Ashville, aged 73 years. His death was due to heart trouble. Two children survive, Arthur Petty and Mrs. Samuel McKenzie. The deceased was a brother-in-law of Mrs. Charles Fellers, of this city.

HARTMAN THEATER

The first of the great metropolitan girl-and-music annuals to be seen in Columbus this season is the Greenwich Village Follies. The new fourth edition of this picturesque and refreshingly artistic revue will be on display at the Hartman theater Columbus for a single week starting Monday night, November 12. Last season it was conceded to be the revue hit of New York where it played for 32 weeks at the Shubert theater. For the past weeks it has been a soaring success at the Apollo theater, Chicago, and it comes to Columbus direct from that city in a special train of eight cars. Three of the Greenwich Village series have already exhibited in Columbus to enthusiastic audiences and this newest version is reputed to surpass all its predecessors in gaiety, wit, pictorial and melodic excellence.

The fine enthusiasm and youthful buoyancy which marks the department of the current "Follies" can be credited to the artistry and imaginative genius of its creator, John Murray Anderson. Anderson is said to have the best eye for color and grouping of any of our stage producers, a claim well substantiated in the present "Follies." A novel constructed and adroitly schemed revue is this "Follies," with song, dance and jasper interlaced in a happy and fleetly moving picture.

It burlesques Balleff and Chauve Souris, goes back to the days of Tony Pastor for a comic bout with the illustrated songs of that period ascends to high art in a reproduction of Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" and an interpretation of Oscar Wilde's "The Nightingale and the Rose," becomes precariously modern in a humorous sketch "Life Among the Advertisements," and in all runs an amazingly long gamut of diversified entertainment.

Mr. Anderson has summoned an imposing list of players under his gay banner to compete in the "Follies." Prominent among them is Carl Randall, Karyl Norman, "The Creole Fashion Plate," Ula Sharon, George Rasely, John Sheehan, Dorothy Neville, Ethel Davis, Julia Silvers, Marjorie Peterson, George Christie, Louis and Frieda Berkoff, Fortunella and Cirillino, Clifton and DeRex and Chase and LaTour and the thirty famous artists' models.

The book of the "Follies" is by George V. Hobart, with contributions from George B. Kaufman and William K. Wells. The music is by Louis A. Hirsch and the lyrics by John Murray Anderson and Irving Caesar. Conspicuous among these last and well known are "Sixty Seconds Every Minute" and "Sweetheart Lane."

The Greenwich Village Follies is said to move with flawless pace and happy temp, flouting all the blueprints and traditions of the stage and providing ample recreation for the eye as well as regaling the ear.

Mail orders from out of town people will be given careful consideration if addressed to the Hartman boxoffice accompanied by check or money order

SOME FLAG.

At Detroit, Michigan, last Sunday an American flag, possibly the largest in the country, was unfurled as a part of the Armistice day celebration. The flag was ninety feet wide and one hundred and fifty feet long. Seven and one-half miles of thread were used in stitching together the 1261 yards of red, white and blue bunting of which the flag was made.

AMUSEMENTS

Mrs. Stanley (Lois Wilson) a widow of thirty-eight, whose youth was extinguished by her hide-bound husband, on the latter's death decides to get as much joy out of life as possible and so encourages the attentions of Professor Giddings, played by Elliott Dexter. Her daughter, Lucy (May McAvoy) is in love with Sidney Johnson, a young college student. Instead of the emphasis being laid on the youthful love story, it is laid up on that of the mother. Her struggle for happiness is played against a background of opposition from her children. At length, yielding to the children's ideas, she renounces her youth and love. But the daughter's own love affair opens her eyes and paves the way to a happy conclusion for both.

The featured players in "Only 38" include May McAvoy, Lois Wilson, Elliott Dexter and George Fawcett. In the support are Robert Agnew, Jane Keckley, Lillian Leighton, and others. The story is full of heart interest and there is a clever mingling of pathos and comedy throat. The love story of a woman who feels that she is old, played in contrast to the love story of her daughter, is most appealing. "Only 38" is a picture every fan can see with profit and complete enjoyment.

Hotel Stenographer

BY ROE FULKERSON

"Whoof!" exclaimed he House Detective, "you smell like a barbershop."

"Kelly, your nose needs education," replied the Hotel Stenographer. "I went to a certain store to get a can of talcum powder. They have such pretty cans there."

"At the perfumery counter whom should I strike but Jaqueline Hannan, who is head saleswoman. I used to know Jaqueline when her name was just plain Mary Murphy, before she married that Hannan fellow who shot the bartender at the Plasterers' picnic at Beuana Vista. She had to go back to work when they gave him a 10 year trick in the hoosegow, making little stones out of big ones."

"Jaqueline has a new henna head and a permanent marcel and is as French as a table de hote dinner. She was awful glad to see me and let me smell every bottle of fancy perfume there was in the place. It was sure a treat. Some of it was four dollars an ounce, and, when you sniff it, you feel like you were drawing about 65 cents' worth of it up your nose."

"Jaqueline sprayed one or two of them on me, Kelly, and I smell so nice to me that I have decided I am too good for that Casey boy. I am going to marry a Spaniard, and learn to dance the tango while he plays a guitar in the moonlight. The trouble with Americans, Kelly, is that we are not romantic enough. I am going in for romance now, and if I see any of it before this smell wears off it better hunt its hole, for if it doesn't, it's a gone gosing."

"Some romance that you carry in your nose," said Kelly, grinchily.

Novel Pencil Holder

An old fountain pen makes a novel pencil holder and uses up small pieces of paper which might otherwise be wasted. Remove the cap in which the pen is held and screw the pencil stub in its place. The threads will hold the pencil firmly.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

The October meeting of the Darbyville W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. Florence Renick. It was a meeting not to be forgotten. First the devotional was led by Mrs. Wilda Carpenter, singing was led by our guest, Miss Drusie Heiskell, assisted by several ladies of Williamsport, after which Miss Heiskell gave a report of the great national W. C. T. U. convention held in Memorial hall, Columbus in September. Miss Heiskell enjoyed very much being Pickaway county's delegate and gave us a splendid report. So much has been written about the fiftieth anniversary convention, so many of Pickaway enjoyed part of the meetings. The wish was expressed that every member had enjoyed them.

Seventy original crusaders were on the platform at the opening meeting, also the pastor of the church in Hillsboro in 1873, where the women first started out to coax the saloon men to quit selling to the men and boys that which was ruining so many homes; coax by singing and praying and reading God's word.

The crusade spread from town to town, from state to state until in the end the State W. C. T. U. was organized and has continued to grow and grow, until today we have not only a state and national union but a World's Union, organized by Miss Frances Willard in 1888.

The November meeting of the Darbyville W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. Cliff Carpenter. There will be a good program. Let every member be there.

Mrs. W. S. Carpenter and daughter, Mrs. William Owsley Flowers, enjoyed the Stevenson reception on Saturday, November 9.

The Girls' Bible class of the Morris U. B. church met with Miss Marcella Hampshire at Thatcher, Friday, November 9, and entertained their friends to an old-fashioned masked party and dancing. A program was rendered by the class after which Halloween stunts were performed. The house was decorated for the occasion in Halloween style. There were thirty-five present who enjoyed the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. David Hall of Ashville, delightfully entertained last Sunday in honor of their niece, Miss Dorothy R. Hall, of Washington D. C. The following were present Mr. and Mrs. John Hall, Mr. and Mrs. William Hall, Mrs. Mary Stein, Mrs. Ora LaRue, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Payne, Miss Esther Hall, Messrs. Clarence Hall, John LaRue, Raymond LaRue, Luke LaRue and Charley LeRue.

Air Power.

An Italian inventor has produced a scheme by which vehicles of wheels and carriages and springs are to be propelled by air. According to the accounts, the scheme is to have huge tanks by the wayside holding vast quantities of compressed air. Locomotives and automobiles and tractors and motorcycles can run alongside and connect their tanks to the mother tank, get a lot of compressed air on board and run to the next stop.

Many Countries Ahead of Us.

In normal times Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, France, Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Spain and Portugal all publish more books in proportion to population than the United States publishes, and their books have a wider circulation.

SIGNED SHIPS' PORT PAPERS

Task Performed by Early Presidents Is Now Done by Others —Executives Too Busy.

Washington.—Modern presidents may have a large amount of routine work devolving upon them, but there are some details attended to regularly by their early predecessors, that are hardly considered important enough nowadays to refer to the White House.

Among these, according to Charles Kohlen, Washington philatelist and document collector, was the trifling detail of signing ships' clearance papers. Among a number of ancient documents Mr. Kohlen recently picked up were two such clearances for small vessels, one signed "G. Washington," the other bearing the large, scrawling signature of John Adams.

Washington Paper Dated 1794.

The paper signed by Washington in September, 1794, attested to the fact that the 82-ton schooner Eliza of New York was owned by citizens of the new nation and was duly allowed to set sail for the West Indies with a cargo of flour, hoops, onions, staves, shingles and scutlings. The form was made out in English, French and Dutch.

The document signed by President Adams bore also as a countersign the signature of Timothy Pickering, secretary of state; was dated August, 1798; showed the proper nationality of the small sloop Endeavour, and gave leave to depart from Portland, Me., to Demerarra, with a cargo of boards, oars, butter, fish, flour, tar, pitch and beef.

Pray for Recognition.

The most interesting section of these clearance papers was an attestation at the bottom of the sheet praying that "most serene, serene, most puissant, puissant, high, illustrious, noble, honorable, venerable, wise and prudent lords, emperors, kings, republics, princes, dukes, earls, barons, schepens, judges, councillors" and a long list of other officers "of all the good cities and places who shall see these presents or hear them read" to recognize the American registry.

Mr. Kohlen has also a number of envelopes showing the difference in postal rates and speed of service since the early days of the postoffice. One contained a letter signed by James Madison as secretary of state, in 1804, to James Sheafe of Portsmouth, N. H., and bore a stamp showing the fee for the trip to have been 10 cents.

Another carried a letter from the recent Amundsen polar expedition, addressed to President Harding, which was sent by airplane mail to Nome, Alaska, and thence across the continent to Washington for 12 cents, including registration fee.

Tells of Fairfax Estate.

Another interesting document in this collection is one relating to the history of the famous Lord Fairfax, who was granted large estates in Virginia by the king of England during early colonial history. Lord Thomas prayed the sheriff of London county, which adjoined his estates, to take into custody Ann Seward who was charged with trespassing upon the Fairfax estate in 1763. According to the yellowed, torn manuscript, the said Ann had wrought damages estimated at 550 pounds, for which the said Lord Thomas required payment.

Man Tossing Nickels to Boys Halts All Traffic

New York.—A well-dressed benign appearing man of about 30 appeared at Broadway and Sixty-sixth street recently and tossed a nickel toward two boys near the curb. They scrambled for it and he threw another. More boys appeared and the stranger, entering into the zest of the game, went into a drug store and got $1 worth of nickels from Miss Grace Walley, the cashier.

By this time the crowd of boys numbered a score or more and the wild scramble for the coins caused the stream of automobiles to halt and threatened to tie up traffic. The stranger threw $2 worth of coins before the supply in the drug store was exhausted and then he asked the boys in to have strawberry sodas. There was only five seats and there was a near riot.

The disturbance attracted Patrolman Cassidy, who put the dispenser of nickels on an uptown surface car after the latter had told the policeman he once lived in the neighborhood and wanted to encourage young American manhood.

Belgian Queen Gets Pardon for Princess

Paris.—Intercession of Queen Elizabeth of Belgium for Princess Louise has ended the ban of more than twenty years against the return of the eldest daughter of King Leopold to her native land.

An allowance sufficient to enable her to live comfortably also has been granted the princess. The first installment reached her in time to permit her to bury the body of Count Mattachich, the Austrian nobleman and army officer, for love of whom she sacrificed everything 20 years ago.

REV. TROUTMAN

Asked to Decline Presidency of Synod of Lutheran Church.

At a congregational meeting of Trinity Lutheran church Sunday, the members present almost unanimously voted for their pastor, Rev. G. J. Troutman not to accept the presidency of the English district of the Ohio synod of the Lutheran church.

The call for Rev. Troutman was a signal honor to one of the hardest workers and most popular ministers in the Ohio synod. Rev. Troutman is so much in demand and is frequently called from his pastorate here in consultation with high officials of the church. This is not the first time he has had a call but he likes the town and his congregation. He has been in charge of Trinity for over a quarter of a century. His acceptance of this honor would be a signal loss to the church and community.

To Raise House Plants From Slips.

To grow a house plant from a slip, take a half-ripe branch and cut a slip three inches long. After taking off all leaves except the upper two, plant it in wet sand, exposing only half of the slip. The sand should be kept moist. When the roots begin to grow, transplant the slip into a pot with ordinary soil. Plants such as oleander and ivy will root in water.

WASHINGTON OAK

Tree at Logan Elm Park From Acorn at Washington's Tomb.

A few days ago Frank Tallmadge, of Columbus, chairman of the Logan Elm park committee, planted in the park a tree, which is known as "The Washington Oak."

The history of this tree is as follows: Trebor Weltz, nurseryman, of Wilmington, Ohio, eight years ago picked up an acorn from the red oak at Washington's tomb at Mt. Vernon. This acorn he took to his nursery, planted it and cared for the young tree until now it is seven feet high and a splendid specimen.

Mr. Weltz kindly donated the tree to the park, shipped it to Mr. Tallmadge who saw to its proper planting. It will be properly inscribed and will, no doubt, prove an added attraction to this historic spot.

The Italian Sky.

The sky of Italy is noted for its clearness. The blue is deeper, not because the dust there is finer than in the northern countries, but because in the countries of the north due to the greater cloudiness of the air, the sun's rays are more readily absorbed than in the south.

Laughter.
A low, musical voice is one of the greatest charms of woman. It sets the seal on her beauty. Without it she loses much of her power of attraction. But many a person has turned away from a pretty girl because of her laughter. There is laughter so loud that it ceases to be hearty and becomes vulgar, so shrill that it gets on the nerves, so strident that it suggests hysterics, and so insane and cackling that the listener concludes that only an empty-headed woman could laugh so.

Many girls do not realize the effect of their laughter, and continually laugh and giggle needlessly. Thus they destroy their chances of making a favorable impression upon people they meet.

Yet a low, musical laugh is a great attraction, the greater because it is so rare. Do you possess it? If not, with patience and perseverance you can achieve it. First listen to yourself whenever you laugh. You will probably be very disagreeably surprised, and realize how ugly laughter can be. You must lower the pitch of your voice. Practice laughing in your own room when you are alone. Banish the cackle on a single note; laughter is almost a scale—harmonious and attractive.

Would Like To.

An absent-minded country vicar met the village postman trudging along a dusty road on a hot summer afternoon. The postman remarked that he had still a mile to walk just to deliver one newspaper.

"My goodness!" exclaimed the sympathetic clergyman, "I'd never walk all that distance for such a trifle. Why don't you send it by post?"

Scottish Superstition.
A death in the family, it is believed in many parts of Scotland, is sure to follow if a flowering Hawthorn is brought into the house. Among the "sea-going" superstitions of Scotland are those which prevent a Scotch sailor from speaking of any four-footed animal while on the sea, lest he come into bad fortune, and the notion that the fish will be frightened away if a fisherman should pass a bare-footed woman before boarding his ship.

MANX CAT WITHOUT TAIL

Animal is Native to the Isle of Man—Jumps Forward Like a Rabbit.

The Manx cat, which is native to the Isle of Man, a British island in the Irish sea, is noted because of its absence of a tail, and a formation of body that distinguishes it from cats of other breeds. The origin of the Manx cat is attributed to the arrival on the Isle of Man of ships belonging to the Spanish armada that were wrecked there. It is said that these cats were most probably previously brought from Japan or other parts of eastern Asia.

In the true Manx cat the forelegs are short and the rump arises as abruptly as possible, making the hind legs longer than the forelegs, so that the cat seems to jump forward like a rabbit and is therefore sometimes called a rabbit cat. The Manx cat may be of any of the recognized colors.

All of the cats of the islands in the East, the Malay peninsula, Japan, China and lands contiguous, and even those of Siam, seem to have curious formations of the tail, whether cut short, forked, kinked or otherwise. But these cats are smaller than the Manx cat and there are differences in the call or language and ways and character.—Detroit News.

FOUR VOLCANOES IN BRITAIN

Along the West Coast of Scotland Are the Remains of the Craters.

Whenever any of the volcanoes of Europe show activity, rumor at once credits Bath with lying in an old crater, says a London writer. The cup-like hollow in which the city is built and the hot springs of the spa give color to the story. "Suppose it broke out again," say people with a little thrill of fearful speculation.

But Bath is not in a crater. She lies in a river valley, just as many another city does. All the same, they have volcanoes in Britain, and, geologically speaking, not so very long ago.

Along the west of Scotland are the remains of four volcanoes of comparatively recent activity. They are in Skye (the Coolin Hills), in Rum, in Mull and on Ardnamurcha Point, and their lava overles the lava of former eruptions.

Probably these volcanoes rose to about 10,000 feet or as high as Etna. They are but a third of their old height now, owing to the sinking of the continental shelf that was once Atlantis and to the natural process of wearing down that all hills undergo. But at one time they formed a great smoking range, and that at a time when many of the newer rocks of Britain had already been formed.

All this western region, much of it now under the sea, was volcanic. The strange columnar rocks at the Giant's Causeway, in northern Ireland, and at Staffa tell of the lava flow. If you can imagine the cracks, forming geometrical patterns, that you see on the surface of drying mud, extending many feet down, as, indeed, some cracks in the clay seemed to do in the drought of two years ago, then you can understand how these columns were formed in the cooling rock.

Wherever there is igneous rock it is intrusive. That is, it has been thrust up from beneath through other rocks. This means that there has been volcanic action, and by that action many hills in northern and western Britain were built. The form of Dartmoor suggests a breaking through and spreading out of the granite, and Dartmoor was no doubt an early volcano.

But the four hills already mentioned in the west of Scotland seem to be the volcanoes that were most recently active in Britain. If man be so old that he lived in the Atlantis of which the British islands are but the surviving hilltops, then he may have seen these four in eruption; but they are dead enough now.

The tale goes that volcanic activity in the far parts of the world is sometimes reflected in a disturbance of the waters of Loch Ness, among the Scotch lochs; and hereabouts, no doubt, there is a weak point in the crust of the earth; but probably the most adventurous-minded of Britain cannot dare to expect to see eruptions in Britain again.

"SIOUX CITY IN WORLD WAR"

Historian of Monahan Post Is Praised as Author of History of the Organization.

Fred W. Pierce, historian of the Edward H. Monahan post of the American Legion in Sioux City, Ia., received the praise of the Legion's national executive committee for his work as director of the Gold Star ceremonial, a patriotic community tribute to the World War dead, and as author of a history of the Monahan post.

The production was held three days, during which it was witnessed by almost every resident of the city. It symbolized the participation of Sioux City in the World War, paying tribute to the memory of 114 men killed in the war.

Scenes from the war, pageantry, music and addresses of orators carried out an allegory, culminating in a tableaux designed to portray the efforts of the American Legion in honoring the dead.

FRED W. PIERCE

A most impressive feature of the presentation was the escort to the auditorium of a large number of "gold star" mothers and wives of deceased soldiers.

Pierce was the moving spirit in conducting the ceremonial, and in compiling the history, "Sioux City in the World War." A portion of the admission fees to the ceremonial and of profits from sale of the history were devoted to the Legion's fund to provide for the permanent annual decoration of overseas graves.

WON MANY 'VARSITY HONORS

Captain and stroke of the 'varsity crew at the United States Naval academy, would be more than enough glory for the average "middy" at Annapolis to aspire to. Add to this three years on the 'varsity crew, three years on the 'varsity football team, and membership on the boxing and wrestling squads, and you have quite a record. Add still the Naval academy cup, awarded to the graduate contributing most to the advancement of athletics in the academy during the year, and you have a part of the accomplishments of Harry Bolles, of Yakima, Wash., a brother of Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant of the American Legion, who has just received his commission as a naval officer from Uncle Sam.

Ensign Bolles is a World War veteran, and a member of the American Legion, having enlisted when seventeen years old at the outbreak of the war. He served for two years as a member of a gun crew on the transport "Great Northern." After the war he obtained his entrance to the Naval academy by passing the hardest sort of competitive examination, where he made good from the start.

FINE KANSAS CITY MEMORIAL

Erection of Splendid Structure to Perpetuate Memory of World War Heroes Now in Progress.

Work of erecting the huge Liberty memorial in Kansas City, Mo., has begun and at least 18 months will be required for completion of construction, according to contractors in charge of the work. The memorial is to take the form of a monumental building and tower to perpetuate the memory of heroes of the World War.

The principal feature of the shrine is the 216-foot stone shaft above the building proper. This towers 350 feet above the Union station plaza and may be seen for miles. At the base of this shaft four sculptured figures representing Courage, Honor, Patriotism and Sacrifice—of heroic proportions, stand as guardians to the "Flame of Inspiration," to burn on the altar atop the towering shaft. These figures are to be designed by Robert I. Altken, a sculptor of considerable repute, who saw service in the World War.

The edifice itself, to be known as the Memorial and American Legion building, is to be a massive structure of stone and steel, surmounted by the great shaft. The total construction cost is over $1,000,000, which does not include mural paintings, sculpture, lighting, landscaping and other work necessary for completion, all of which are estimated to require at least three-quarters of a million dollars.

If you are in need of decorations and find but one lone, short-stemmed rose on your bush, do not despair. Pick the flower with as long a stem as possible. Then either tie or wire the short-stemmed blossom to a longer stem of another flower; in this way there is no waste on account of lack of stem. If you have no other flowers whose stems you can use, try a bit of the branch of the plant, or, in lieu of better, avail yourself of the hollow stem of an artificial rose.

SPEEDY RETURNS

Secretary of State Brown Set New Record at Election.

The splendid results attained in the prompt counting and reporting of election returns last Tuesday have elicited a deluge of congratulatory telegrams and letters at the office of the secretary of state, Thad H. Brown.

The expedition with which the vote was tabulated is a result of the new law requiring election officials throughout the state to complete the count and make immediate report of the returns before ceasing their labors on election night. This law was drafted by Secretary of State Brown last spring after conference with representatives of Ohio newspapers and the effect is a demonstration of how rapidly and smoothly election results can be ascertained and made public if the election machinery of the state is properly coordinated.

For the first time in history the complete returns were in the hands of the secretary of state within 24 hours after the polls had been closed, a record heretofore considered impossible of attainment. Once initiated, the system will be working still more smoothly and expeditiously at the next election, which happens to be the presidential primary election next April.

Delighted and proud of the record achieved, Secretary of State Brown has written to the boards of elections in each county thanking and congratulating its members and the subordinate officials under their supervision for the splendid work done.

"The following telegram was received by me this morning:

Cincinnati, O., October 7, 8:20 P. M.
"Thad H. Brown,
Secretary of State, Columbus, Ohio.

"The Enquirer desires to both thank and congratulate you on your splendid election service. It sets a standard.

—The Enquirer, H. M. Potter
Managing Editor."

"I wish at this time, to cordially thank you as a member of the Board of Deputy State Supervisors of Elections for the splendid cooperation and assistance rendered without which the record referred to by the Cincinnati Enquirer would not have been possible.

"Trusting that you will call to see me at any time you are in the city of Columbus, believe me, with kindest regards.

Cordially yours,
THAD H. BROWN,
Secretary of State."

HOME BURNED

Building and Contents is Total Loss—Family Carried Out.

The home of John Owens, south of Kinderhook, was destroyed by fire at 6:30 o'clock this morning. The house caught fire from an overheated stove in the kitchen. Mr. Owens had some difficulty in rescuing his family. His wife was ill in bed and a boy two years of age and another son, three days old, had to be carried out of the burning house. Mr. Owens first tried to put out the flames but was unsuccessful. The house was lined with beaver board, and the flames spread rapidly enveloping the house and making the interior a tinder box in the space of a few minutes. All the household goods and clothing were consumed.

The house, a frame structure of four rooms, was owned by George Tatman. The house was insured in the T. P. Brown agency.

It may not beget undue attention, but 240,162,943 needles were made in the United States last year. NEW PLANT FOOD

Chayote From Central America Now Grown in U. S.

Is Related to Cucumber and Squash—Provides Excellent Fall and Early Winter Vegetable.

Among the plant immigrants to this country from Central America, the chayote promises to be one of the most satisfactory for use in the mild-wintered regions of the South Atlantic and Gulf Coast states and parts of California. The fruits and tubers of the chayote were among the principal foods of the Aztecs, Mayas and other peoples previous to the Spanish conquest of Mexico and Central America, and the vine today is one of the principal food plants of the inhabitants of these regions, where it occupies the position horticulturally that the potato does in more northern districts. The chayote has been grown for more than a generation in restricted areas of the South, where it has been known variously as vegetable pear, mirliton, and mango squash.

The chayote is related to the cucumber and squash, although the fruits are not similar, ranging in color from dark green to ivory white and in size from those weighing a few ounces to fruits two pounds or more in weight. There are also wide variations among the chayotes as to surface and shape. In the South the chayote provides an excellent fall and early winter table vegetable, the period of fruiting extending from early October until frost. Owing to its vigorous growth and prolific yield, a single vine in the garden or yard will produce more than enough chayotes for the average family under favorable soil and climate conditions.

Although the chayote is used here chiefly as a vegetable, it also lends itself to use as a forage crop, an ornamental vine, for greens, for producing blanched shoots which are used like asparagus tips, and as a straw which is used in making extra quality ornamental baskets, hats and other articles. In preparing chayotes for the table they are usually cut crosswise into thick slices, pared, and boiled until tender in just enough salted water to cook them. They may then be creamed or buttered and served. Because of its delicate texture and mild flavor the chayote is especially desirable for use in salads. It is prepared as above described, cooled, and then served on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise or French dressing.

Makes Remarkable Discoveries.

The mechanical eye of the aviator's camera is adding materially to our knowledge of prehistoric man. Primitive disturbances of the soil may have disappeared so completely as to leave no trace whatever on the surface, and yet are plainly visible from an airship. The so-called "Avenue," leading from the famous monuments of Stonehenge, near Salisbury, England, has now been traced as far as the River Avon by means of aerial photographs and later verifications made by pedestrians. It is now believed that the stones were taken from the Prescelly hills in Pembrokeshire and brought by sea up the River Avon to a point near Stonehenge, where they were taken overland to Stonehenge by means of a newly discovered avenue which follows the gentlest slopes up from the river. —Popular Mechanics Magazine.

The Babylike Communist.

General Secretary Mott of the International Y. M. C. A. was condemning communism.

"The communist," he said, "proposes that we should all loaf and enjoy life, while our Rockefeller and Henry Fords and Charlie Schwabs run things for us, working ten or twenty hours a day as they have always done, without salary or reward of any kind. The communist reminds me of the baby.

"What's the matter with the baby?" a young mother screamed from an upstairs window. "What's he howling and bawling about now?"

"Oh, he's terrible, ma'am," the nursemaid called back. "He's dug a big hole down here in the garden, and he insists on bringin' it into the house."

Something on Account.

Two Yankees were in Cook's office at Cannes for the purpose of turning some dollar checks into francs.

"Well, gentlemen," said the clerk, "if you will give me 50 centimes (two-pence) I can cash your checks in full without any small change being necessary."

A Scotsman who overheard the conversation and saw that the tourists were somewhat perplexed, neither of them having 50 centimes at the moment, stepped forward and produced the coin, saying politely:

"Great Britain owes America £900,000,000 and here I find two Americans in want of a little money. Please allow a Scotsman to make a contribution toward the liquidation of our debt."—Paris Daily Mail.

Good Excuse.

The recent discussion of the severe burden placed upon presidents has recalled the old story of Lincoln, who when told he looked tired and worn from his duties remarked to a friend: "Yes, I feel very much like the Irishman who, after being ridden on a rail, remarked, 'If it was not for the honor of the thing, I'd rather walk.'"—New York Mail.

Such Is Human Nature.

LAWS OF TWO STATES UPHELD

Prohibit Japanese From Owning or Leasing Lands.

SUPREME COURT'S DECISION

Each State, in the Absence of Any Treaty Provision Conferring the Right, It Is Held, May Enact Laws Prohibiting Aliens From Owning Land Within Its Borders—Cases From California and Washington.

Washington, Nov. 13.—The United States supreme court upheld the state laws of California and Washington prohibiting Japanese from owning or leasing lands in those states.

In the Washington case, which was used as a precedent for the California decision, the court declared: "Each state, in the absence of any treaty provision conferring the right, may enact laws prohibiting aliens from owning land within its borders. Unless the right to own or lease land is given by the treaty, no question of conflict can arise."

The Washington case brought into question the commerce and navigation treaty between the United States and Japan, it being contended in the test suit that the state act was in conflict with this treaty. The court held:

"The state act, in our opinion, is not in conflict with the treaty between the United States and Japan. The preamble declares it to be a 'treaty of commerce and navigation,' and indicates that it was entered into for the purpose of establishing the rules to govern the commercial intercourse between the two countries. The only provision that relates to owning or leasing land is the first paragraph of Article 1, which is as follows: 'The citizens or subjects of each of the high contracting parties shall have liberty to enter, travel and reside in the territories of the other, to carry on trade, wholesale or retail, to own or lease and occupy houses, manufacturers, factories, warehouses, and to employ agents, etc.'"

"If the language left the treaty provisions obscure, the court finds the letter of Secretary of State Bryan to Viscount Uchida, July 16, 1916, shows that it was in accordance with the wish of Japan that the right to own land was not conferred by the treaty."

In the California decision the court declared: "The treaty between the United States and Japan does not confer upon Japanese subjects the privilege of acquiring or leasing land for agricultural purposes. In the case before us the prohibited class includes ineligible aliens only. In the matter of classification the states have wide discretion. Each has its own problems, depending on circumstances existing there. It is not always practical or desirable that legislation shall be the same in different states. We can not say that the failure of the California legislature to extend the prohibited class so as to include eligible aliens who have failed to declare their intentions to become citizens of the United States was arbitrary or unreasonable."

SOLONS FAVOR MELLON PLAN

Tax Reductions Would Lower Cost of Living, It Is Claimed.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's plan for sweeping tax reductions has the approval of leaders in congress, he revealed. The moment the reductions become effective, Mellon said, the country will witness an immediate decline in the cost of living. As an instance, he pointed out, the railroads, now hard pressed to pay dividends and taxes, would be enabled to borrow money at a lower rate of interest. As a result, he believes, there will be a reduction in the high freight rates on all commodities, now a big factor in the maintenance of high prices. The big attraction for the proposal, he feels, is that which would reduce the highest brackets, or surtaxes, to twenty-five per cent. He said the present system has proved a failure because where the government expected to collect a vast sum, the real wealth is escaping taxation altogether.

To Die In Chair.

MOVES AGAINST REDS

Mexican Government Sends Ultimatum to Their Headquarters.

Mexico City, Nov. 13.—In an attempt to put an end to the destructive activities of organized "red" labor, which is strongly entrenched throughout the federal district, an ultimatum has been delivered to the headquarters of the "reds" in this city by federal authorities. The action of the authorities followed close on the heels of the discovery of a quantity of dynamite in the gigantic electric power cable at Nacaza, which supplies this city with light and power. This is the second attempt to destroy the cable within a week, both attempts being frustrated by the vigilance of the federal troops stationed nearby. During the past week the "reds" have been circulating printed propaganda among the working classes in an attempt to inflame the minds of the masses against the army and police.

FORMER KAISER MAY RE-ENTER GERMANY

Wilhelm Reported to Have Received His Passports.

Paris, Nov. 13.—Dispatches reaching here from The Hague insist that former Kaiser Wilhelm has received his passports and is ready to re-enter Germany.

It was stated that the former emperor has been maintaining close relations with the leaders of the German monarchist movement and was said to be hopeful that the events in Germany would turn in his favor. Germany's refusal to permit the allies to reinstate military control or to deliver the former crown prince was read to the council of ambassadors, and was referred to the various governments for action.

Even on this matter there is a wide divergence of opinion between the French and English. The former hold that the crown prince should be tried by the Leipzig court for war crimes, while the British insist that Wilhelm be delivered by Germany to the allies, who could thereupon exile him to some island, preferably St. Helena. The majority of the press emphasizes the helplessness of the allies before Germany's defiance, and expresses the view that "sending an army corps to capture him seems the only way to compel the former crown prince's surrender."

Youth Restorer Fatal.

Cincinnati, Nov. 13.—Stephen Flack, 85, Norwood, met death in his search for renewed youth, it is believed. He was found seemingly unconscious on the street. Coroner Handley said that an empty bottle found in his pockets had contained a proprietary medicine which the government barred from the mails because of its disastrous effect upon the human system. It was advertised to restore youth to the aged.

VON KAHR DEFIES HITLER FORCES

Refuses to Give Them a Voice in the Dictatorship.

HITLER NOW UNDER ARREST

Bavarian Fascist Leader Seized at Uffing and Placed in Prison—Ludendorff Issues Statements Charging Treachery on the Part of Von Kahr—Social Democrats Demand Convening of the Reichstag.

Berlin, Nov. 13.—The "private armies" in Bavaria made a demand on Dictator Von Kahr that he give a voice in the Bavarian dictatorship to the "Hitlerites."

The demand on behalf of the group of small military organizations was made by Captain Ehrhardt, commander of Ehrhardt's "vikings," who insisted that Von Kahr agree not to molest the Hitler forces. The demand was met with a curt refusal on the part of the Bavarian dictator, who immediately issued a proclamation asserting: "Full executive power in Bavaria rests in my hands, and I consider myself responsible, not only to Bavaria, but to the whole German people for every step. Bavaria shall be the nucleus of the new and honorable German state."

The Social Democratic party sent a demand to the central government that the reichstag be immediately called into session and that some definite program for "maintaining the unity of the reich" be promptly instituted. The Socialists also demanded further currency and exchange reforms.

Adolph Hitler, Bavaria's fascist leader, was arrested at Uffing, on Lake Staffelsee, near the Bavarian Alps.

After the chief of his press department had declared emphatically that there was "not a word of truth in the report," and that on the contrary Hitler was at Kuffstein, his arrest was confirmed at Dictator Von Kahr's headquarters, though it was said that his whereabouts was being kept from the public.

It was reported that after Hitler's arrest he had been concealed at a farm house and later transferred to a prison at Landsberg. Ernst Hanfstaengel, New York art dealer, one of Hitler's chief aides, is said to be the leader at Kuffstein who is attempting to rally the Hitler followers.

There is less excitement in Munich and the "movement" is believed to be dying out.

TREACHERY CHARGED

General Ludendorff Assails Bavarian Dictator Von Kahr.

Munich, Nov. 13.—General Erich Ludendorff charged Dictator Von Kahr with double dealing and treachery when he turned against Adolph Hitler and Ludendorff in the 18-hour revolution of Thursday and Friday. The motive attributed to the Bavarian dictator for his sudden switch is that Von Kahr did not desire the success of the German national movement, but wanted to turn it in favor of a south German monarchy.

Ludendorff was not wounded, did not commit suicide and was not killed on orders from Von Kahr, though all of these rumors were circulated. He is very much alive, and not even broken down or "utterly crushed," as variously reported.

To Fly to North Pole.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Lieutenant Ralph E. Davison, Missouri boy chosen by the navy department to fly next summer from Spitzbergen to the north pole with Roald Amundsen, will soon be assigned to duty in cold regions to steel him for his task. Davison is now a valued member of the naval air force at the Pensacola station, and is feared that should he be allowed to continue on duty in Florida he might become physically unfitted to withstand the rigors of the far north.

According to statements of eyewitnesses to the murder made at the coroner's investigation, Shank, before killing Mrs. Tenwalde, shot and killed Olivia Tenwalde, 18, unmarried, mother of his 16 months' old child, and the girl's cousin, Lawrence Tenwalde, 23. ARMY AND NAVY ASK FOR FUNDS

Air Force Building Program Calls for $45,000,000.

JOINT BOARD CONSIDERS PLAN

Army Project Is For a Ten-Year Program Involving $25,000,000 Annually, While the Navy's Five-Year Project Calls For Annual Appropriation of $20,000,000—Weeks Turns Over Proposals to Denby.

Washington, Nov. 13.—The joint board of the army and navy has submitted to Secretary of War Weeks and Secretary of the Navy Denby a report covering proposed army-navy air force building programs totaling about $45,000,000.

The report is based upon a careful study of American air defense problems and upon recommendations submitted by army and navy officers.

The purpose is to co-ordinate the development of the air forces of the army and navy and to establish a logical building program to meet the needs of air defense against attack by foreign nations.

Both the army and the navy programs were submitted simultaneously to the joint board for consideration. The army project calls for a 10-year construction program involving an annual appropriation of $25,000,000. This recommendation, according to the board of officers appointed by the war department, covers the minimum force necessary if the army is to perform its mission in protecting the country from invasion. Naval officers ask the adoption of a five-year program involving a total expenditure of approximately $20,000,000, or an average of $20,000,000 annually. The navy program is guided in part by the fact that two airplane carriers will be completed in two years hence.

The recommendations of the navy are based upon the belief that the United States should maintain its "treaty fleet" at the highest efficiency. The $20,000,000 total includes not only supplying airplanes, but also the building of air fleet bases at such points as Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and the Panama canal. After the completion of the five-year program, it is estimated, the navy will need about $20,000,000 annually to maintain its air force on an efficient basis.

Some differences have arisen within the war department because of the desire of Major General Patrick, chief of air service, for a Zeppelin. Secretary Weeks is not so enthusiastic as is General Patrick over the military possibilities of the Zeppelin. General Patrick would like to have an army Zeppelin built in Germany. If authority and funds can be obtained, it is possible that the war department will enter into negotiations with the American purchasers of the Zeppelin patents.

Without giving his approval, Mr. Weeks has transmitted the recommendations of the joint board to Secretary Denby for consideration. The secretary of war is particularly desirous of avoiding duplication of effort by the two services.

PROTECTION THE ISSUE

British Government Decides to Hold Immediate General Election.

London, Nov. 13.—The British government decided to hold an immediate general election on the protection issue. Premier Baldwin, after seeing King George, informed his friends that the plan is to announce the dissolution of parliament on Thursday and to hold the elections on Dec. 6. The decision was reached by the Conservatives so as not to give the Liberal, Labor or free trade parties time to organize in opposition to the proposed revolution in the country's fiscal policy. Nevertheless, the Liberals are speeding up the process of unity on behalf of Lloyd George. Sir Alfred Mond called on former Premier Herbert Asquith with a view of healing the war-time feud which has existed between the two ex-premiers.

Police Chief Quits.

URGES APPROPRIATION

Funk Would Extend Relief to Starving Children of Germany.

Washington, Nov. 13.—President Coolidge was urged to ask congress to extend relief to the starving and under-nourished children of Germany.

Representative Frank R. Funk of Illinois made the recommendation after a careful study of the situation on a recent visit to Germany. He would make $25,000,000 available for the purchase of food and ask Germany to arrange to finance an additional purchase of $24,000,000. The first sum would be put at the disposal of a committee headed by Major General Henry T. Allen, former commander of the American forces of occupation. With the co-operation of Charles G. Dawes, former director of the budget, this committee is now engaged in raising relief funds from private contributions.

Because the reparations commission would prevent the issuance of any government bonds to pay for food, Representative Funk asks that that congress authorize the war finance corporation to enter into negotiations with German municipalities. These municipalities could issue bonds, he said, which could be underwritten by the war finance corporation and used as collateral for the purchase of foods.

Forbes to Be Quizzed.

Washington, Nov. 13.—Colonel Charles R. Forbes, former director of the veterans' bureau, will take the stand today in defense of his administration before the senate investigating committee, it was announced by James S. Eassey-Smith, Forbes' counsel. Forbes is expected to enter a sweeping denial of charges made against him and his administration by Elias H. Mortimer and other witnesses who have appeared before the committee since hearings opened Oct. 22. Forbes has not appeared at the hearings for more than a week. It was announced a week ago that he was too ill to leave his room.

BASEBALL DEAL

New York Giants and Boston Braves Swap Players.

New York, Nov. 13.—Dave Bancroft, captain and shortstop of the Giants, was traded to the Boston Braves to become their manager, replacing Fred Mitchell, who has resigned. "Casey" Stengel, a hero in the last world's series, and Bill Cunningham, outfielder, go with Bancroft to Boston, and in exchange the Giants will get Billy Southworth, hard hitting Grave outfielder, and Joe Oeschger, a pitcher. The deal was completed at a meeting at the headquarters of the New York club. At Boston Bancroft will play shortstop and will also be captain of the team. Stengel and Cunningham may land regular outfield berths in view of the mediocre talent of the Boston outfit.

Boy Run Down.

Dover, O., Nov. 13.—Andrew Chordash, 4, was hit by an automobile and fatally injured while watching a football game. The boy's neck was broken and he died on the way to a hospital.

BY THE SLEEPING SEINE

So Still It Lies Before Dawn That Its Course to the Sea Seems to Have Stopped.

You will have to stay out late or get up very early to catch the silver Seine asleep. And even then you might find it waking, wind-ruffled and restless, for the Seine seldom goes to sleep. But when, by some good fortune, you surprise it slumbering then you truly find a sleeping beauty. So still it lies sometimes in the hour before the dawn that it would seem for once to have stayed its course to join the sea. Not the tiniest ripple disturbs its polished surface.

And sleeping, it would seem to be dream-haunted. It dreams of the city through which it flows. Above it hangs the starlit sky; tall buildings seem to peep into its depths, and the bridges stretch across it almost caressingly as though protecting a child that had gone to sleep.

And the dream of the river is of these same stars that shine above, of the tall buildings that are peeping down, of the bridges that stretch their arms above its bosom. For in the mirror of its shining surface you will see all these things more beautiful perhaps than their reality, and, looking down into this dream city, you will speak quite softly lest haply you might wake the sleeping Seine.—London Mail.

MARIE GREAT HELP TO HER

Mother Could Do Washing for Eleven So Easy When Girl Played a Ukulele.

Unselfish mothers too often make or permit their daughters to be selfish, more's the pity. One such mother, according to a story that Booth Tarkington likes to tell, was bending industriously over the washtub when a neighbor said to her, "Hard at it as usual, ain't ye?"

"Yes," replied the mother cheerfully. "Yes, this is wash day, Mrs. O'Hoolahan, and washin' for eleven don't leave you much spare time on your hands."

"Is that Marie I hear singin' to the ukulele in the parlor?"

Marie, by the way, was in infancy christened Mary and in early youth was always known as Mollie.

"Yes, Mrs. O'Hoolahan, that's her. The help she is to me! Oh, dear! Oh, dear! I don't know how I'd get along without that girl! Every Monday morning she gets out the ukulele or opens up the piano, and while I'm scrubbin' the clothes she sings the nicest, cheerin'est pieces, like 'Mother's Day,' or 'Dear Mother, in Dreams I See You,' or 'Lighten Mother's Tasks With Love,' and the work just rolls off like play. I tell you, Mrs. O'Hoolahan, there ain't many girls like our Marie."

CITY MANAGER CUTS TAX RATE

Clarinda (Ia.) Treasury Balance Increases From $6,000 to $44,700 in Four Years.

Clarinda, Ia.—Clarinda has just completed a four-year experiment in city government. Four years ago Clarinda engaged a manager to run the town. That manager has just resigned to go to Janesville, Wis. But Clarinda is so proud of its one-man government that it wants to tell the world all about it.

When Clarinda began talking "city management" five or six years ago there was very little information to be had on the subject. The system was new. People "thought" it should work out all right, but didn't "know" what to expect from the plan. But Clarinda now knows.

Paid Cash for Everything.

The city manager, Henry Traxler, took office on April 1, 1919. On that day there was a balance in the city treasury of $6,000. After four years of one-man management, the city's balance is $44,700.

The tax rate has not been raised. It actually has been lowered. Many thousands of dollars' worth of improvements have been made, and Clarinda has paid cash for everything.

Clarinda got in those four years 100 cents' worth for every dollar it spent for material and labor. It did not bother itself to find out if a Republican could clean more square yards of pavement than a Democrat, or whether a Socialist was a better worker than a Prohibitionist. An employee's politics was lost sight of completely. All he had to do was to work, no matter how he voted.

Some of the Results.

Here are some of the improvements Clarinda has made in the last four years:

Installed a new water purification system; bought an armory and made it serve also for a city business building; purchased a municipal cemetery; laid many miles of new paving (costing $165,000 in 1921 alone); rebuilt the fire station and added new apparatus; kept up the ordinary repairs to all city property.

While other towns and cities were voting and issuing bonds right and left and fastening a heavy debt on coming generations, Clarinda paid its way as it went and did not issue a single bond.

Furthermore, while taxes were mounting skywards in other cities and towns, Clarinda actually cut its tax rate. In 1916 the tax levy was 42½ mills. This year it was 42 mills, including a 2-mill levy for the municipal band.

Saved $6,000 in Fees.

Among the "jobs" of the city manager was that of handling the municipal waterworks. Clarinda is proud of its water system. It is called the best in southwestern Iowa, and its rates are quite a bit lower than in other cities of the same class. On April 1, 1919, the water work's balance was $27. Now it is more than $10,000. In the meantime, the plant has been built up to the minute and pays all overhead, costs of operation and replacements.

The armory cost the city $15,000 and $9,000 additional was spent to modernize the building so that it could be used for offices as well. Part of the building not used by the city is rented for $4,000 a year, which more than pays all expenses. The building also is used by the band, and the auditorium is reserved for public affairs without expense.

The cemetery, bought by the city manager for $10,000, now has $9,200 in its maintenance fund.

While the city was spending $165,000 for paving, the city manager, who also is an engineer, took charge of the paving program and in one year saved the town $6,000 in engineering fees.

Porto Rican Kills Man

Who Refused Him Shave

New York.—Refusal to shave an impatient customer cost James Fornita, an uptown barber, his life, and resulted in the arrest of Julius Rodriguez, who said he was a Porto Rican cowboy, on a charge of homicide.

Rodriguez entered Fornita's shop and put himself in a chair. When recommended to a neighboring shop, he commenced to shoot up the place, the police said. One bullet killed Fornita, another grazed the cheek of an assistant. Then Rodriguez fled. When the police seized him after an exciting chase, he still had the pistol in his hand.

The American Outclassed.
 The American truth teller was in form. "Talking of ants," he said, "we've got 'em as big as crabs out West. I've seen 'em fight with long horns, which they use as lances, charging each other like savages."
 "They don't compare with the ants I saw in the Far East," said an inoffensive individual nearby. "The natives have trained them as beasts of burden. One of 'em could trail a ton load for miles with ease. They worked willingly, but occasionally they turned on their attendants and killed them."
 But this was drawing the long bow a little too far.
 "I say, old chap," said a shocked voice from the corner, "what sort of ants were they?"
 "Elephant-ants," replied the inoffensive individual.—London Tit-Bits.

Boy Wins First Prize at Indiana State Fair

Muncie Youth Takes Baby Beef Championship.

When the leaders of the live stock industry promoted the baby beef club work among boys and girls, they did not expect that within only a few years these juniors would be able to surpass the experienced veterans in the show arena. But this, however, happened at the recent Indiana state fair when the winner in the baby beef contest showed in the open classes and defeated the breeders themselves for the grand championship of the show.

The boy who had this proud distinction was William Robert Wilson, the son of the well-known Aberdeen-Angus breeder, W. W. Wilson of Muncie, Indiana. After winning at his county fair, the young man took his baby beef, Baron W. to Indianapolis to compete for the state championship. There he met stiff competition in the show of 62 calves, 24 of which were Short-horns, 22 Aberdeen-Angus and 16 Here-fords.

This promising stockman was asked to tell the story of his success for the benefit of the thousands of farmer boys and girls who are enrolled in club work all over the country. The following account is given in his own words:

"The calf that I showed in Indianapolis is a pure bred Angus. His sire is Belmont E. Baron and his dam is

William Wilson and His Champion Steer, Baron W.

Leona Dean. I named him Baron W. I bought him of my father in March. He weighed on March 1, 920 pounds.

"When I bought him he was running in the lot with other cattle, feeding on ensilage, clover hay and straw. I tied him up for a week and began to feed him some ground oats and corn and oil meal with his ensilage and carried him water.

"I won grand champion on him at our county fair and then I took him to our state fair, where I won first in the calf club and grand champion of the club. Then he won first in the open Angus class and was made champion Angus steer and later grand champion over all breeds. I am going to show him at the International Live Stock Exposition in the Calf club contest."

Professor W. J. Kennedy, Sioux City, Iowa, who judged the steers at Indianapolis, is reported to have stated that the animals shown there were among the best he had seen this year.

Ordinary Grain Binder Will Handle Soy Beans

The essential thing when harvesting soy beans for grain is to do the work just when the pods are nearly ripe, for even a few days' delay will cause many of the dead-ripe pods to shatter. The Iowa experiment station says that small acreages of soy beans may be economically handled with an ordinary grain binder, for then the sheaves can be shocked like other grain and left until they are fit to hull. The beans may be colored up some from the rains, but they will be kept sound and sweet and will be fit for feed or for seed.

Energetic Fowls Found to Be Best Egg Layers

"The fowl that lays during the winter is the one that lays best during the summer months," says Annabelle Campbell, poultry specialist in the office of extension work with women, Minnesota university. "The fowl that lays best under adverse conditions is the one that also, after a short rest, produces during the winter, rests for a short time and then comes into laying in the spring and continues laying during the summer months until fall. The best fowls in the flock are those that require the least amount of rest."

Production of Turkeys Decreasing Every Year

The production of turkeys seems to decrease yearly. Perhaps this is due to the increase in the production of capons. Certain it is that capons are much easier to raise, and there are many people who will tell you that they like capon meat better than that of the turkey. Little has ever been done in the way of raising turkeys in confinement. When it has been tried the results have been discouraging. Capons, on the other hand, can be raised successfully in this manner.

Not Entirely Alone.
 "Yes, your honor," said the aggrieved woman, as she dabbed her eyes, "he neglected me shamefully. Why, he never was at home."
 "And I suppose you had to spend your evenings all by yourself, with no companionship whatever?"
 "W-w-well," she sobbed, "I had two goldfish."

BUSINESS WOMEN

Club to be Organized Here—Initial Meeting Monday Evening.

A representative number of the business and professional women of Circleville met in the chamber of commerce Monday evening to consider the possibility of organizing a Business and Professional Women's club.

A banquet was served at 6 o'clock and following came an intellectual feast with Dr. Eliza Edwards, of Cincinnati, and Miss Helen Myers, of Columbus, as speakers.

The object of the club is the co-operation of women in an organized club, making better business women, development and confidence, gives broader outlook thru contact with others, furnishes opportunity for physical and mental growth, makes the business women part and parcel of her community.

Dr. Edwards spoke of the great possibilities of Circleville and the advantages to be gained by systematic leadership and classified information. No organization should live for itself alone. Valuable contacts with other business women are made thru clubs, bringing pleasant social relations and new business opportunities. Team work, club loyalty, cooperation are strong factors in development.

Miss Myers, one of the state organizers, told of the activities of the Columbus club and how it has promoted the interests and encouraged business and professional women.

The chairman appointed the following committees:

On Constitution:—Margaret Clark, Helen Rowe, Esther Davidson.

Nomination Committee:—Mary Foreman, Charlotte Phelps, Mary Howard, Mrs. Ida M. Graham, Charlotte M. Ewing.

Publicity Chairman:—Miss Agnes R. Butch.

Chairman on Arrangements:—Mrs. Harry G. Stevenson.

Membership Committee:—Mrs. Louise Crawford.

Mrs. Stevenson and Mrs. Crawford will appoint their own assistants.

Enthusiasm bubbled over when the thermometer indicated that fifty had signed for a permanent organization.

The next meeting will be held Monday evening, November 26. The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the speakers and the chamber of commerce.

Chic Japanese Kimono;
Red as Ground Color

This very beautiful Japanese kimono is shown in a soft silk with a drop-stitched line running through. The ground color is red, with a Nipponese pattern in blue and white.

Fashion Notes That
Will Appeal to Women

Many of the strictly tailored models are characterized by fine tucking. The termination of tucks at a point several inches below the waist gives a long line effect to the frock. Most of the frocks of this style are made on perfectly straight lines, with the beltless mode predominating. One especially successful dress of this type has a high collar, long, tight sleeves and no trimming except a narrow band of silk embroidery around the hem of the skirt, which dips slightly upward toward the side fastening.

Wide sleeves of black silk lace enhance a draped black satin velvet gown, caught at the side with a rhinestone buckle. Plaited panels and the square neck are features of other models in Parisian exhibits. One is cut velvet in cafe au lait color, another of chenille velours with panels of crepe du jour.

For motor, steamer or travel wear, sports attire, developed in the popular tweeds, is very much in the foreground of fashion. Mixtures of gray, tan and brown colorings are especially effective. A great many of these are fashioned in the cape coat mode, either with the sleeves banded in circular folds simulating the cape effect, or the coat itself flaunting a detachable cape.

Among the types of sleeve most prominent is one tight to a little below the elbow, and there slashed, piped and puffed, ending in a tight wristband.

Green, in various soft shades, almond and bottle green, is favored, and remains a favorite for semi-formal and street frocks.

The newest formal gowns introduce the train at the side, rather than the back. The trains drape forward as gracefully as backward with each step the wearer takes.

Three-Quarter Length
Mandarin Style Coats

Generally speaking there is no more becoming fashion to the average woman than that of a coat of three-quarter length worn with a frock to match. Slender in line, a costume of this type is not only graceful and dignified, but extremely smart as well. For the woman of rather moderate dress allowance it is probably the most satisfactory choice she could make. It serves so many purposes and may be worn on both formal and informal occasions.

It is in a costume of this type that the Chinese influence is so pronounced. The lines of the coat, the cut of the sleeves and the details of trimming have been copied from a mandarin coat.

A new fashion that has appeared shows a suit which has a skirt of striped wool with a fur trimmed coat of plain color, or the order is reversed. These are what might be called semi-sports suits and are just the thing for early autumn days in the country or for a suit to wear in the morning when shopping.

The question of waistline still remains a matter of individual choice, since many of the best designs show a rather long waist while others place it a bit nearer the natural line. It is claimed, however, that the long line gives an appearance of youth and therefore is perhaps the more popular choice.

New and Unusual.

A coat which is a striking exponent of the new mode is in color a marvelous tone called Egyptian granite, somewhat like rosewood. It is trimmed with bands of beaver slightly separated so that one glimpses the color of the fabric. These bands are arranged to extend only across one side, leaving the other plain. The effect is new and unusual.

Leather Directory Case.

WORKER FOR LEGION BUDDIES

Robert G. Simmons, Nebraska Congressman, Has Done Much for Ex-Service Men.

Robert G. Simmons, congressman from Nebraska, is a democratic sort of a chap, and doesn't hesitate to tell about it. He keeps a Holstein cow, drives a popular touring car, and hobnobs with his neighbors, particularly those who are members of the American Legion in his home town of Scottsbluff, Neb., where he has made his way up to the position he now holds.

Simmons was born in a sod house on a western Nebraska homestead, sixty miles from a railroad. His early life was like that of any youngster of the western country. He had to help earn his way by farm labor, janitor work, messenger duty and odd jobs. When he attended college at Hastings he mowed lawns, washed dishes and tended furnaces to pay his expenses.

He entered the military service in 1917 at Fort Omaha, Neb., as a private first class, but when discharged in 1919, had been elevated to the rank of second lieutenant, air service. Mr. Simmons is a lawyer, and was county attorney at the time of his enlistment.

He served one term as commander of the Nebraska department of the American Legion, during which time certain legislation favored by the Legion was successfully enacted. He was active in securing the passage of a law establishing a $2,000,000 endowment fund, income from which is expended by the American Legion in the state for the benefit of needy ex-service men. Interest in the affairs of the ex-service men of the nation is a deep concern of the Nebraska congressman and he expects to devote a great deal of time to the Legion's program for relief of disabled.

PLAN TO TEACH AMERICANISM

Illinois Legion Commander Arranges for Broad Campaign During School Vacation.

Every school child in Illinois will hear a weekly message of Americanism during the school year, according to announced plans of the Illinois department of the American Legion, in accepting an outline of work from Commander Charles W. Schick of that state.

Commander Schick plans that every Legion post in the state's 102 counties will assign certain members of the organization to speak in each school room in the cities and each school in country districts every week during the school year, carrying a message of better citizenship to the youth of America.

In this manner the Illinois Legion man believes that such careful training aiming toward a better understanding of rights and privileges of citizenship will result in rapid assimilation of aliens in the state as well as assisting in raising the standard of citizenship of those already in possession of these rights.

Co-operation by members of the Legion with churches and other agencies in preparing citizens for naturalization is included in Commander Schick's plans. Prospective citizens will receive thorough training in the requirements for naturalization, so that the applicant will be familiar with American history and institutions before the final papers are awarded. Because church life is closer to the home it is hoped that the Legion, working through the various denominations, may realize on this plan for citizenship.

El Paso to Welcome Veterans.

Legionnaires who travel to San Francisco for the annual convention of the American Legion, may pass through El Paso, Tex., where a reception awaits them. The local Legion post started the idea, which was joined in by the El Paso Chamber of Commerce, army officials and railroads entering the city. A feature of the visit of each delegation will be a short trip into old Mexico, across the international bridge into Juarez. Automobiles will be furnished for this trip. The invitation holds good for either the coming or going trips of the Legion travelers, or both, according to the El Paso committee.

Only Auxiliary Baseball Team.

Members of the American Legion auxiliary in Stanton, Ia., are believed to have formed the only baseball team composed of woman relatives of former service men. A challenge to the team of any other unit has been made by the Stanton nine.

FEDERAL PRISONER.

Harry Carwell, of Columbus, a one legged beggar, plead guilty last Saturday in federal court to transporting a young girl from West Virginia to Columbus. He was sentenced by Judge Sater under the Mann act to eight months in the Pickaway county jail.

JOHN PETTY DEAD.

John Petty died suddenly Sunday morning at the home of his son, Arthur Petty, in Ashville, aged 73 years. His death was due to heart trouble.

Two children survive, Arthur Petty and Mrs. Samuel McKenzie. The deceased was a brother-in-law of Mrs. Charles Fellers, of this city.

HARTMAN THEATER

The first of the great metropolitan girl-and-music annuals to be seen in Columbus this season is the Greenwich Village Follies. The new fourth edition of this picturesque and refreshingly artistic revue will be on display at the Hartman theater Columbus for a single week starting Monday night, November 12. Last season it was conceded to be the revue hit of New York where it played for 32 weeks at the Shubert theater. For the past weeks it has been a soaring success at the Apollo theater, Chicago, and it comes to Columbus direct from that city in a special train of eight cars. Three of the Greenwich Village series have already exhibited in Columbus to enthusiastic audiences and this newest version is reputed to surpass all its predecessors in gaiety, wit, pictorial and melodic excellence.

The fine enthusiasm and youthful buoyancy which marks the department of the current "Follies" can be credited to the artistry and imaginative genius of its creator, John Murray Anderson. Anderson is said to have the best eye for color and grouping of any of our stage producers, a claim well substantiated in the present "Follies." A novelty constructed and adroitly schemed revue is this "Follies," with song, dance and japey interlaced in a happy and fleetly moving picture.

It burlesques Balfe and Chauve Souris, goes back to the days of Tony Pastor for a comic bout with the illustrated songs of that period ascends to high art in a reproduction of Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata" and an interpretation of Oscar Wilde's "The Nightingale and the Rose," becomes precariously modern in a humorous sketch "Life Among the Advertisements," and all in all runs an amazingly long gamut of diversified entertainment.

Mr. Anderson has summoned an imposing list of players under his gay banner to compete in the "Follies." Prominent among them is Carl Randall, Karyl Norman, "The Creole Fashion Plate," Ula Sharon, George Rasely, John Sheehan, Dorothy Neville, Ethel Davis, Julia Silvers, Marjorie Peterson, George Christie, Louis and Frieda Berkoff, Fortunella and Cirillino, Clifton and DeRex and Chase and LaTour and the thirty famous artists' models.

The book of the "Follies" is by George V. Hobart, with contributions from George B. Kaufman and William K. Wells. The music is by Louis A. Hirsch and the lyrics by John Murray Anderson and Irving Caesar. Conspicuous among these last and well known are "Sixty Seconds Every Minute" and "Sweetheart Lane."

The Greenwich Village Follies is said to move with flawless pace and happy temp, flouting all the blueprints and traditions of the stage and providing ample recreation for the eye as well as regaling the ear.

Mail orders from out of town people will be given careful consideration if addressed to the Hartman boxoffice accompanied by check or money order.

AMUSEMENTS

Mrs. Stanley (Lois Wilson) a widow of thirty-eight, whose youth was extinguished by her hide-bound husband, on the latter's death decides to get as much joy out of life as possible and so encourages the attentions of Professor Giddings, played by Elliott Dexter. Her daughter, Lucy (May McAvoy) is in love with Sidney Johnson, a young college student. Instead of the emphasis being laid on the youthful love story, it is laid upon that of the mother. Her struggle for happiness is played against a background of opposition from her children. At length, yielding to the children's ideas, she renounces her youth and love. But the daughter's own love affair opens her eyes and paves the way to a happy conclusion for both.

The featured players in "Only 38" include May McAvoy, Lois Wilson, Elliott Dexter and George Fawcett. In the support are Robert Agnew, Jane Keckley, Lillian Leighton, and others. The story is full of heart interest and there is a clever mingling of pathos and comedy throughout. The love story of a woman who feels that she is old, played in contrast to the love story of her daughter, is most appealing. "Only 38" is a picture every fan can see with profit and complete enjoyment.

Hotel Stenographer

BY ROE FULKERSON

"Whoof!" exclaimed he House Detective, "you smell like a barber shop."

"Kelly, your nose needs education," replied the Hotel Stenographer. "I went to a certain store to get a can of talcum powder. They have such pretty cans there."

"At the perfumery counter whom should I strike but Jaqualine Hannan, who is head saleswoman. I used to know Jaqualine when her name was just plain Mary Murphy, before she married that Hannan fellow who shot the bartender at the Plasterers' picnic at Beuana Vista. She had to go back to work when they gave him a 10 year trick in the hoosegow, making little stones out of big ones."

"Jaqualine has a new henna head and a permanent marcel and is as French as a table de hote dinner. She was awful glad to see me and let me smell every bottle of fancy perfume there was in the place. It was sure a treat. Some of it was four dollars an ounce, and, when you sniff it, you feel like you were drawing about 65 cents' worth of it up your nose."

"Jaqualine sprayed one or two of them on me, Kelly, and I smell so nice to me that I have decided I am too good for that Casey boy. I am going to marry a Spaniard, and learn to dance the tango while he plays a guitar in the moonlight. The trouble with Americans, Kelly, is that we are not romantic enough. I am going in for romance now, and if I see any of those little fellows before this small wears off it bettor hunt its hole, for if it doesn't, it's gone gossling."

"Some romance that you carry in your nose," said Kelly, grouchily.

Chattel Property of C. E. Helvering Brought Fair Prices.

C. E. Helvering of Washington township, held a public sale of farm chattels Monday preparatory to removing from the farm that he recently sold to Wallace Arledge, of Salt-creek township.

The attendance was good and the prices fair; some of the maximum prices being: horses, $99; cows, $63.50; hay, $11 per ton; corn, $1.10 per shock; poultry $1.10 per head; farming machinery, tools, etc., about in the same proportion.

Col. Emanuel Dresbach auctioneered and J. D. Hummel clerked. Lunch was served by S. J. Leist.

Mr. and Mrs. Helvering are undecided at this time whether they will purchase another country home or remove to the city of Circleville.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

The October meeting of the Darbyville W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. Florence Renick. It was a meeting not to be forgotten. First the devotional was led by Mrs. Wilda Carpenter, singing was led by our guest, Miss Drusie Heiskell, assisted by several ladies of Williamsport, after which Miss Heiskell gave a report of the great national W. C. T. U. convention held in Memorial hall, Columbus in September. Miss Heiskell enjoyed very much being Pickaway county's delegate and gave us a splendid report. So much has been written about the fiftieth anniversary convention, so many of Pickaway enjoyed part of the meetings. The wish was expressed that every member had enjoyed them.

Seventy original crusaders were on the platform at the opening meeting, also the pastor of the church in Hillsboro in 1873, where the women first started out to coax the saloon men to quit selling to the men and boys that which was ruining so many homes; coax by singing and praying and reading God's word.

The crusade spread from town to town, from state to state until in the end the State W. C. T. U. was organized and has continued to grow and grow, until today we have not only a state and national union but a World's Union, organized by Miss Frances Willard in 1888.

The November meeting of the Darbyville W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. Cliff Carpenter. There will be a good program. Let every member be there.

Mrs. W. S. Carpenter and daughter, Mrs. William Owsley Flowers, enjoyed the Stevenson reception on Saturday, November 9.

The Girls' Bible class of the Morris U. B. church met with Miss Marcella Hampshire at Thatcher, Friday, November 9, and entertained their friends to an old-fashioned masked party and dancing. A program was rendered by the class after which Hallowe'en stunts were performed. The house was decorated for the occasion in Hallowe'en style. There were thirty-five present who enjoyed the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. David Hall of Ashville, delightfully entertained last Sunday in honor of their niece, Miss Dorothy R. Hall, of Washington D. C. The following were present Mr. and Mrs. John Hall, Mr. and Mrs. William Hall, Mrs. Mary Stein, Mrs. Ora LaRue, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Payne, Miss Esther Hall, Messrs. Clarence Hall, John LaRue, Raymond LaRue, Luke LaRue and Charley LeRue.

Air Power.

An Italian inventor has produced a scheme by which vehicles of wheels and carriages and springs are to be propelled by air. According to the accounts, the scheme is to have huge tanks by the wayside holding vast quantities of compressed air. Locomotives and automobiles and tractors and motorcycles can run alongside and connect their tanks to the mother tank, get a lot of compressed air on board and run to the next stop.

Many Countries Ahead of Us.

In normal times Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, France, Belgium, Switzerland, Italy, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Spain and Portugal all publish more books in proportion to population than the United States publishes, and their books have a wider circulation.

Bible Thought for Today

GREAT POWER FROM GOD.—Behold, I give unto you power to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy; and nothing shall by any means hurt you.—Luke 10:19.

SIGNED SHIPS' PORT PAPERS

Task Performed by Early Presidents Is Now Done by Others —Executives Too Busy.

Washington.—Modern presidents may have a large amount of routine work devolving upon them, but there are some details attended to regularly by their early predecessors, that are hardly considered important enough nowadays to refer to the White House.

Among these, according to Charles Kohen, Washington philatelist and document collector, was the trifling detail of signing ships' clearance papers. Among a number of ancient documents Mr. Kohen recently picked up were two such clearances for small vessels, one signed "G. Washington," the other bearing the large, scrawling signature of John Adams.

Washington Paper Dated 1794.

The paper signed by Washington in September, 1794, attested to the fact that the 82-ton schooner Eliza of New York was owned by citizens of the new nation and was duly allowed to set sail for the West Indies with a cargo of flour, hoops, onions, staves, shingles and scutlings. The form was made out in English, French and Dutch.

The document signed by President Adams bore also as a countersign the signature of Timothy Pickering, secretary of state; was dated August, 1798; showed the proper nationality of the small sloop Endeavour, and gave leave to depart from Portland, Me., to Demerara, with a cargo of boards, oars, butter, fish, flour, tar, pitch and beef.

Pray for Recognition.

The most interesting section of these clearance papers was an attest at the bottom of the sheet praying that "most serene, serene, most puissant, puissant, high, illustrious, noble, honorable, venerable, wise and prudent lords, emperors, kings, republics, princes, dukes, earls, barons, schepens, judges, councillors" and a long list of other officers "of all the good cities and places who shall see these presents or hear them read" to recognize the American registry.

Mr. Kohen has also a number of envelopes showing the difference in postal rates and speed of service since the early days of the postoffice. One contained a letter signed by James Madison as secretary of state, in 1804, to James Sheafe of Portsmouth, N. H., and bore a stamp showing the fee for the trip to have been 10 cents.

Another carried a letter from the recent Amundsen polar expedition, addressed to President Harding, which was sent by airplane mail to Nome, Alaska, and thence across the continent to Washington for 12 cents, including registration fee.

Tells of Fairfax Estate.

Another interesting document in this collection is one relating to the history of the famous Lord Fairfax, who was granted large estates in Virginia by the king of England during early colonial history. Lord Thomas prayed the sheriff of London county, which adjoined his estates, to take into custody Ann Seward who was charged with trespassing upon the Fairfax estate in 1763. According to the yellowed, torn manuscript, the said Ann had wrought damages estimated at 550 pounds, for which the said Lord Thomas required payment.

Man Tossing Nickels to Boys Halts All Traffic

New York.—A well-dressed benign appearing man of about 30 appeared at Broadway and Sixty-sixth street recently and tossed a nickel toward two boys near the curb. They scrambled for it and he threw another. More boys appeared and the stranger, entering into the zest of the game, went into a drug store and got $1 worth of nickels from Miss Grace Walley, the cashier.

By this time the crowd of boys numbered a score or more and the wild scramble for the coins caused the stream of automobiles to halt and threatened to tie up traffic. The stranger threw $2 worth of coins before the supply in the drug store was exhausted and then he asked the boys in to have strawberry sodas. There was only five seats and there was a near riot.

The disturbance attracted Patrolman Cassidy, who put the dispenser of nickels on an uptown surface car after the latter had told the policeman he once lived in the neighborhood and wanted to encourage young American manhood.

Belgian Queen Gets Pardon for Princess

Paris.—Intercession of Queen Elizabeth of Belgium for Princess Louise has ended the ban of more than twenty years against the return of the eldest daughter of King Leopold to her native land.

An allowance sufficient to enable her to live comfortably also has been granted the princess. The first installment reached her in time to permit her to bury the body of Count Mattachich, the Austrian nobleman and army officer, for love of whom she sacrificed everything 20 years ago.

REV. TROUTMAN

Asked to Decline Presidency of Synod of Lutheran Church.

At a congregational meeting of Trinity Lutheran church Sunday, the members present almost unanimously voted for their pastor, Rev. G. J. Troutman not to accept the presidency of the English district of the Ohio synod of the Lutheran church.

The call for Rev. Troutman was a signal honor to one of the hardest workers and most popular ministers in the Ohio synod. Rev. Troutman is so much in demand and is frequently called from his pastorate here in consultation with high officials of the church. This is not the first time he has had a call but he likes the town and his congregation. He has been in charge of Trinity for over a quarter of a century. His acceptance of this honor would be a signal loss to the church and community.

To Raise House Plants From Slips.

To grow a house plant from a slip, take a half-ripe branch and cut a slip three inches long. After taking off all leaves except the upper two, plant it in wet sand, exposing only half of the slip. The sand should be kept moist. When the roots begin to grow, transplant the slip into a pot with ordinary soil. Plants such as oleander and ivy will root in water.

WASHINGTON OAK

Tree at Logan Elm Park From Acorn at Washington's Tomb.

A few days ago Frank Tallmadge, of Columbus, chairman of the Logan Elm park committee, planted in the park a tree, which is known as "The Washington Oak."

The history of this tree is as follows: Trebor Weltz, nurseryman, of Wilmington, Ohio, eight years ago picked up an acorn from the red oak at Washington's tomb at Mt. Vernon. This acorn he took to his nursery, planted it and cared for the young tree until now it is seven feet high and a splendid specimen.

Mr. Weltz kindly donated the tree to the park, shipped it to Mr. Tallmadge who saw to its proper planting. It will be properly inscribed and will, no doubt, prove an added attraction to this historic spot.

The Italian Sky.

The sky of Italy is noted for its clearness. The blue is deeper, not because the dust there is finer than in the northern countries, but because in the countries of the north, due to the greater latitudes of the air, the sun's rays are more readily clouded.

When Something is Offered for Nothing. Or Where an Extra Profit is Offered Above What is Economically Safe.

More than a hundred years have passed since Benjamin Franklin penned this warning. Yet, what a good motto it is today.

There are still in our midst those who would have us forget that value received and price paid must always balance. In the long run, however, people don't forget. We are building for the future. Conservatism, careful judgment and careful statement were valued yesterday, are valued today and will be valued tomorrow.

When you buy a KELLY CORD TIRE you get the long mileage for which Kellys have always been famous. You also get the greatest degree of protection against skidding that has ever been obtainable in any tire.

A good tire deserves a good tube. In fact, without a good tube inside it the best of tires won't yield the service its makers have built into it. Kelly tubes are a real economy. They are made to help tires deliver the mileage for which Kellys have always been noted.

Laughter.

A low, musical voice is one of the greatest charms of woman. It sets the seal on her beauty. Without it she loses much of her power of attraction. But many a person has turned away from a pretty girl because of her laughter. There is laughter so loud that it ceases to be hearty and becomes vulgar, so shrill that it gets on the nerves, so strident that it suggests hysterics, and so inane and cackling that the listener concludes that only an empty-headed woman could laugh so.

Many girls do not realize the effect of their laughter, and continually laugh and giggle needlessly. Thus they destroy their chances of making a favorable impression upon people they meet.

Yet a low, musical laugh is a great attraction, the greater because it is so rare. Do you possess it? If not, with patience and perseverance you can achieve it. First listen to yourself whenever you laugh. You will probably be very disagreeably surprised, and realize how ugly laughter can be. You must lower the pitch of your voice. Practice laughing in your own room when you are alone. Banish the cackle on a single note; laughter is almost a scale—harmonious and attractive.

Would Like To.

An absent-minded country vicar met the village postman trudging along a dusty road on a hot summer afternoon. The postman remarked that he had still a mile to walk just to deliver one newspaper.

"My goodness!" exclaimed the sympathetic clergyman, "I'd never walk all that distance for such a trifle. Why don't you send it by post?"

Scottish Superstition.

A death in the family. It is believed in many parts of Scotland, is sure to follow if a flowering Hawthorn is brought into the house. Among the "sea-going" superstitions of Scotland are those which prevent a Scotch sailor from speaking of any four-footed animal while on the sea, lest he come into bad fortune, and the notion that the fish will be frightened away if a fisherman should pass a bare-footed woman before boarding his ship.

MANX CAT WITHOUT TAIL

Animal is Native to the Isle of Man—Jumps Forward Like a Rabbit.

The Manx cat, which is native to the Isle of Man, a British island in the Irish sea, is noted because of its absence of a tail, and a formation of body that distinguishes it from cats of other breeds. The origin of the Manx cat is attributed to the arrival on the Isle of Man of ships belonging to the Spanish armada that were wrecked there. It is said that these cats were most probably previously brought from Japan or other parts of eastern Asia.

In the true Manx cat the forelegs are short and the rump arises as abruptly as possible, making the hind legs longer than the forelegs, so that the cat seems to jump forward like a rabbit and is therefore sometimes called a rabbit cat. The Manx cat may be of any of the recognized colors.

All of the cats of the islands in the East, the Malay peninsula, Japan, China and lands contiguous, and even those of Siam, seem to have curious formations of the tail, whether cut short, forked, kinked or otherwise. But these cats are smaller than the Manx cat and there are differences in the call or language and ways and character.—Detroit News.

FOUR VOLCANOES IN BRITAIN

Along the West Coast of Scotland Are the Remains of the Craters.

Whenever any of the volcanoes of Europe show activity, rumor at once credits Bath with lying in an old crater, says a London writer. The cup-like hollow in which the city is built and the hot springs of the spa give color to the story. "Suppose it broke out again," say people with a little thrill of fearful speculation.

But Bath is not in a crater. She lies in a river valley, just as many another city does. All the same, they have volcanoes in Britain, and, geologically speaking, not so very long ago.

Along the west of Scotland are the remains of four volcanoes of comparatively recent activity. They are in Skye (the Coolin Hills), in Rum, in Mull and on Ardmurcha Point, and their lava overflows the lava of former eruptions.

Probably these volcanoes rose to about 10,000 feet or as high as Etna. They are but a third of their old height now, owing to the sinking of the continental shelf that was once Atlantis and to the natural process of wearing down that all hills undergo. But at one time they formed a great smoking range, and that at a time when many of the newer rocks of Britain had already been formed.

All this western region, much of it now under the sea, was volcanic. The strange columnar rocks at the Giant's Causeway, in northern Ireland, and at Staffa tell of the lava flow. If you can imagine the cracks, forming geometrical patterns, that you see on the surface of drying mud, extending many feet down, as, indeed, some cracks in the clay seemed to do in the drought of two years ago, then you can understand how these columns were formed in the cooling rock.

Wherever there is igneous rock it is intrusive. That is, it has been thrust up from beneath through other rocks. This means that there has been volcanic action, and by that action many hills in northern and western Britain were built. The form of Dartmoor suggests a breaking through and spreading out of the granite, and Dartmoor was no doubt an early volcano.

But the four hills already mentioned in the west of Scotland seem to be the volcanoes that most recently active in Britain. If man be so old that he lived in the Atlantis of which the British Islands are but the surviving hilltops, then he may have seen these four in eruption; but they are dead enough now.

The tale goes that volcanic activity in the far parts of the world is sometimes reflected in a disturbance of the waters of Loch Ness, among the Scotch lochs; and hereabouts, no doubt, there is a weak point in the crust of the earth; but probably the most adventurous-minded of Britain cannot dare to expect to see eruptions in Britain again.

"SIOUX CITY IN WORLD WAR"

Historian of Monahan Post Is Praised as Author of History of the Organization.

Fred W. Pierce, historian of the Edward H. Monahan post of the American Legion in Sioux City, Ia., received the praise of the Legion's national executive committee for his work as director of the Gold Star ceremonial, a patriotic community tribute to the World War dead, and as author of a history of the Monahan post.

The production was held three days, during which it was witnessed by almost every resident of the city. It symbolized the participation of Sioux City in the World War, paying tribute to the memory of 114 men killed in the war.

Scenes from the war, pageantry, music and addresses of orators carried out an allegory, culminating in a tableaux designed to portray the efforts of the American Legion in honoring the dead.

FRED W. PIERCE

A most impressive feature of the presentation was the escort to the auditorium of a large number of "gold star" mothers and wives of deceased soldiers.

Pierce was the moving spirit in conducting the ceremonial, and in compiling the history, "Sioux City in the World War." A portion of the admission fees to the ceremonial and of profits from sale of the history were devoted to the Legion's fund to provide for the permanent annual decoration of overseas graves.

WON MANY 'VARSITY HONORS

Captain and stroke of the 'varsity crew at the United States Naval academy, would be more than enough glory for the average "middy" at Annapolis to aspire to. Add to this three years on the 'varsity crew, three years on the 'varsity football team, and membership on the boxing and wrestling squads, and you have quite a record. Add still the Naval academy cup, awarded to the graduate contributing most to the advancement of athletics in the academy during the year, and you have a part of the accomplishments of Harry Bolles, of Yakima, Wash., a brother of Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant of the American Legion, who has just received his commission as a naval officer from Uncle Sam.

Ensign Bolles is a World war veteran, and a member of the American Legion, having enlisted when seventeen years old at the outbreak of the war. He served for two years as a member of a gun crew on the transport "Great Northern." After the war he obtained his entrance to the Naval academy by passing the hardest sort of competitive examination, where he made good from the start.

FINE KANSAS CITY MEMORIAL

Erection of Splendid Structure to Perpetuate Memory of World War Heroes Now In Progress.

Work of erecting the huge Liberty memorial in Kansas City, Mo., has begun and at least 18 months will be required for completion of construction, according to contractors in charge of the work. The memorial is to take the form of a monumental building and tower to perpetuate the memory of heroes of the World war.

The principal feature of the shrine is the 216-foot stone shaft above the building proper. This towers 350 feet above the Union station plaza and may be seen for miles. At the base of this shaft four sculptured figures representing Courage, Honor, Patriotism and Sacrifice—of heroic proportions, stand as guardians to the "Flame of Inspiration," to burn on the altar atop the towering shaft. These figures are to be designed by Robert I. Aitken, a sculptor of considerable repute, who saw service in the World war.

The edifice itself, to be known as the Memorial and American Legion building, is to be a massive structure of stone and steel, surmounted by the great shaft. The total construction cost is over $1,000,000, which does not include mural paintings, sculpture, lighting, landscaping and other work necessary for completion, all of which are estimated to require at least three-quarters of a million dollars.

For One Lone Blossom. If you are in need of decorations and find but one lone, short-stemmed rose on your bush, do not despair. Pick the flower with as long a stem as possible. Then either tie or wire the short-stemmed blossom to a longer stem of another flower; in this way there is no waste on account of lack of stem. If you have no other flowers whose stems you can use, try a bit of better use of yourself of the hollow stem of an artificial rose.

We have installed a pleating outfit and can do all your pleating right here in Circleville at Barnhill's. Snovd12.

SPEEDY RETURNS

Secretary of State Brown Set New Record at Election.

The splendid results attained in the prompt counting and reporting of election returns last Tuesday have elicited a deluge of congratulatory telegrams and letters at the office of the secretary of state, Thad H. Brown.

The expedition with which the vote was tabulated is a result of the new law requiring election officials throughout the state to complete the count and make immediate report of the returns before ceasing their labors on election night. This law was drafted by Secretary of State Brown last spring after conference with representatives of Ohio newspapers and the effect is a demonstration of how rapidly and smoothly election results can be ascertained and made public if the election machinery of the state is properly coordinated.

For the first time in history the complete returns were in the hands of the secretary of state within 24 hours after the polls had been closed, a record heretofore considered impossible of attainment. Once initiated, the system will be working still more smoothly and expeditiously at the next election, which happens to be the presidential primary election next April.

Delighted and proud of the record achieved, Secretary of State Brown has written to the boards of elections in each county thanking and congratulating its members and the subordinate officials under their supervision for the splendid work done.

"The following telegram was received by me this morning:

Cincinnati, O., October 7, 8:20 P. M.

Thad H. Brown,
Secretary of State, Columbus, Ohio.

"The Enquirer desires to both thank and congratulate you on your splendid election service. It sets a standard.

—The Enquirer, H. M. Potter
Managing Editor."

"I wish at this time, to cordially thank you as a member of the Board of Deputy State Supervisors of Elections for the splendid cooperation and assistance rendered without which the record referred to by the Cincinnati Enquirer would not have been possible.

"Trusting that you will call to see me at any time you are in the city of Columbus, believe me, with kindest regards.

Cordially yours,
THAD H. BROWN,
Secretary of State."

HOME BURNED

Building and Contents is Total Loss—
Family Carried Out.

The home of John Owens, south of Kinderhook, was destroyed by fire at 6:30 o'clock this morning. The house caught fire from an overheated stove in the kitchen. Mr. Owens had some difficulty in rescuing his family. His wife was ill in bed and a boy two years of age and another son, three days old, had to be carried out of the burning house. Mr. Owens first tried to put out the flames but was unsuccessful. The house was lined with beaver board, and the flames spread rapidly enveloping the house and making the interior a tinder box in the space of a few minutes. All the household goods and clothing were consumed.

The house, a frame structure of four rooms, was owned by George Tattman. The house was insured in the T. P. Brown agency.

Word to the Women.

It may not beget undue attention, but 240,162,943 needles were made in the United States last year. It would be pleasant mental recreation for a long evening to figure how many hours of labor, based on the proverb that a stitch in time saves nine, would have been saved the women of the nation if all these needles had been applied at the psychological moment.

NEW PLANT FOOD

Chayote From Central America
Now Grown in U. S.

Is Related to Cucumber and Squash—
Provides Excellent Fall and Early Winter Vegetable.

Among the plant immigrants to this country from Central America, the chayote promises to be one of the most satisfactory for use in the mild-wintered regions of the South Atlantic and Gulf Coast states and parts of California. The fruits and tubers of the chayote were among the principal foods of the Aztecs, Mayas and other peoples previous to the Spanish conquest of Mexico and Central America, and the vine today is one of the principal food plants of the inhabitants of these regions, where it occupies the position horticulturally that the potato does in more northern districts. The chayote has been grown for more than a generation in restricted areas of the South, where it has been known variously as vegetable pear, mirliton, and mango squash.

The chayote is related to the cucumber and squash, although the fruits are not similar, ranging in color from dark green to ivory white and in size from those weighing a few ounces to fruits two pounds or more in weight. There are also wide variations among the chayotes as to surface and shape. In the South the chayote provides an excellent fall and early winter table vegetable, the period of fruiting extending from early October until frost. Owing to its vigorous growth and prolific yield, a single vine in the garden or yard will produce more than enough chayotes for the average family under favorable soil and climate conditions.

Although the chayote is used here chiefly as a vegetable, it also lends itself to use as a forage crop, an ornamental vine, for greens, for producing blanched shoots which are used like asparagus tips, and as a straw which is used in making extra quality ornamental baskets, hats and other articles. In preparing chayotes for the table they are usually cut crosswise into thick slices, pared, and boiled until tender in just enough salted water to cook them. They may then be creamed or buttered and served. Because of its delicate texture and mild flavor the chayote is especially desirable for use in salads. It is prepared as above described, cooled, and then served on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise or French dressing.

Makes Remarkable Discoveries.

The mechanical eye of the aviator's camera is adding materially to our knowledge of prehistoric man. Primitive disturbances of the soil may have disappeared so completely as to leave no trace whatever on the surface, and yet are plainly visible from an airship. The so-called "Avenue," leading from the famous monuments of Stonehenge, near Salisbury, England, has now been traced as far as the River Avon by means of aerial photographs and later verifications made by pedestrians. It is now believed that the stones were taken from the Prescelly hills in Pembrokeshire and brought by sea up the River Avon to a point near Stonehenge, where they were taken overland to Stonehenge by means of a newly discovered avenue which follows the gentlest slopes up from the river. —Popular Mechanics Magazine.

The Babylike Communist.

General Secretary Mott of the International Y. M. C. A. was condemning communism.

"The communist," he said, "proposes that we should all loaf and enjoy life, while our Rockefeller and Henry Fords and Charlie Schwabs run things for us, working ten or twenty hours a day as they have always done, without salary or reward of any kind. The communist reminds me of the baby."

"What's the matter with the baby?" a young mother screamed from an upstairs window. "What's he howling and bawling about now?"

"Oh, he's terrible, ma'am," the nursemaid called back. "He's dug a big hole down here in the garden, and he insists on bringin' it into the house."

Something on Account.

Two Yankees were in Cook's office at Cannes for the purpose of turning some dollar checks into francs. "Well, gentlemen," said the clerk, "if you will give me 50 centimes (two-pence) I can cash your checks in full without any small change being necessary."

A Scotchman who overheard the conversation and saw that the tourists were somewhat perplexed, neither of them having 50 centimes at the moment, stepped forward and produced the coin, saying politely:

"Great Britain owes America $900,000,000 and here I find two Americans in want of a little money. Please allow a Scotsman to make a contribution toward the liquidation of our debt."—Paris Daily Mail.

Good Excuse.

The recent discussion of the severe burden placed upon presidents has recalled the old story of Lincoln, who when told he looked tired and worn from his duties remarked to a friend: "Yes, I feel very much like the Irishman who, after being ridden on a rail, remarked, 'If it was not for the honor of the thing, I'd rather walk.'"—New York Mail.

Such Is Human Nature.

The man who does the most complaining when an automobile breaks down is always the one who is waiting for more ride instead of the one who has to fix it.

Above the Earth.

The earth's sensible atmosphere extends some 40 miles above the earth's surface but becomes, at only a few miles height, of too great a tenuity to support life.

Fall Slippers.

Many skins are used for shoes. We hear, however, that banana skins are reserved for slippers. — London Blighty.
